OHIO DRAFT QUOTAS, DATES SET

Her Son's Number Is First

Mother of a 21-year-old Washington, D. C., youth whose number was first drawn in America's first peace-time draft lottery. Mrs. Mildred C. Bell, is pictured shaking hands with Clarence Dykstra, the director of the national conscription bill. Mrs. Bell, who was in the audience in the Washington hall where the drawing took place, was stunned with surprise when her son's number, 158, was first called.

Greek Defenders Stall Fascist Advance

NAZIS TRYING TO END WAR, REPORTS SAY

Axis Powers Suffer Setback as Greeks Fight Instead of Bowing To Demands.

ITALIAN NAVY BALKED

Bad Weather, Mines Laid In Important Channels By British Tie It Up.

(By United Press)

Greek soldiers fighting in the frontier mountains were reported today to have stalled the Axis offensive into the Balkans with the aid of Great Britain's navy and bad weather. Unconfirmed reports were heard in Bulgaria that Germany was seeking to end the conflict.

Dispatches from the Jugoslav frontier said that severe fighting was in progress at half a dozen points inside the Greek border but that Italian columns had been hurled back with considerable loss at some points, especially in the Korca sector to which Fascist reinforcements were being rushed.

Unfavorable weather was said to have hampered Italy's big air fleet, while the Italian navy was apparently blocked out of the most important Greek zone by the laying of British mines along the west coast and around the Gulfs of Patras, Corinth and Aegina.

Censorship and poor communications still obscured the full extent of fighting and the progress of the Italian campaign—which Italy said was proceeding normally—but in the central of Bulgaria there were persistent unconfirmed reports that an effort was being made to bring the Greek war to a quick end. Germany, it was asserted, was taking the lead in that direction.

The Sofia reports that Germany was exerting pressure on Turkey, Bulgaria and Jugoslavia to persuade Greece to agree to armistice were discounted in responsible sources but it was pointed out that such a move was in line with reports that the Axis powers had not expected Greece to resist.

One version circulated at the beginning of the Fascist offensive

As Richland Men Learned They Were No. 1 In Draft Call

FIRST CALL TO TAKE ONLY 9 FROM COUNTY

They're Scheduled To Leave For Camp About Nov. 19; More Go on Dec. 2.

3 INDUCTION CENTERS

Huge Task of Drawing Order Numbers In Lottery Ends Early This Morning.

Draft quotas for the first call for conscripts and the dates for induction into the U. S. army for a year's military training were set today for Ohio selective registrants.

Only 996 Ohioans will be called in the first draft between Nov. 19 and Nov. 27, of that number nine will be called up from Richland county, three from each of the local draft board districts.

A second call for men is expected to be issued Dec. 2, at which time a much bigger quota will be established for the state, thus drawing more heavily on Mansfield and Richland county registrants.

The total number of men expected to be called up over the nation in the November allotment is 30,000.

Though there was nothing definite about it, the Dec. 2 call was expected to be for 60,000. Subsequent calls, which will be made at intervals until next June, will be stepped up until 800,000 men have been summoned for duty.

In Washington, Draft Director Clarence Dykstra said: "Registrants having order numbers up to 1,500 probably will be enough to meet the first year's needs for trainees."

Mansfielders called to service will report to one of three induction stations, probably Fort Hayes at Columbus, which will receive men from the northern and central parts of the state. The others are located at Fort Thomas, Ky., for Cincinnati and southwestern counties, and the National Guard Armory at Huntington, W. Va.,

Willkie Hits Defense: FDR In New England

Charges Roosevelt Passes Buck on Arms Program.

By THEODORE F. KOOP.

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO BALTIMORE—(AP)—Accusing President Roosevelt of "buck passing" and "boon dogging neglect" of American defenses, Wendell L. Willkie returned east today with the charge that a third term would endanger preparedness, and that "democracy itself may be lost."

The Republican presidential nominee is expected by associates to devote a large part of his final campaign speeches to defense issues, which he emphasized last night in two addresses at Charleston, W. Va.

In the first, delivered to a cheering crowd which jammed the city auditorium, Willkie declared that the president in recent years had "over-ruled the experts" and failed to ask for sufficient funds to build up the army and navy.

Last January, he said, Mr. Roosevelt recommended an increase of $250,000,000 in defense

President to Make Major Talk In Boston Tonight.

BULLETIN

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL, EN ROUTE TO BOSTON — (INS) — President Roosevelt is expected to announce plans for further aid to Great Britain in his speech at Boston tonight, it was learned today.

By GEORGE DURNO

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (INS) — President Roosevelt, invading New England for a series of speeches to be climaxed by a major campaign adress in Boston tonight, told a crowd that braved a steady rain to greet him in New Haven today that the "only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

The president was brief in his remarks to the crowd, estimated by police at between 4,000 and 5,000, who huddled under umbrellas to greet him at the New Haven station. Among the welcoming committee were Mayor John W. Murphy of New Haven and Robert A. Hurley, Democratic nominee for governor of Connecticut.

In a combination of rear platform appearances, defense inspections and an overland motor tour, the president was concentrating this morning on Connecticut, which casts eight electoral votes next Tuesday.

Tonight, in the Boston Garden, Mr. Roosevelt will make his final bir for the 16 electoral votes of Massachusetts with the third of his home stretch replies to what he terms "the deliberate falsifications" of his Republican opposition.

The chief executive meantime kept an ear closely attuned to

SPURNS CABINET

Lewis Says He Wouldn't Accept Willkie Appointment.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain, today declared that he would not accept the post of secretary of labor in the cabinet of Wendell L. Willkie should he be elected president.

In a move obviously intended to silence rumors that he had been offered the cabinet post in exchange for his bolt from the New Deal to the support of the Republican candidate, Lewis, in a formal statement said:

"In the past, I have been offered the portfolio of labor and I have declined it.

"If, in the future, it should be again tendered me, I would decline it.

PRINCESS DIES

Niece of Russian Czar Stricken In England at 53.

LONDON — (AP) — Death of Princes Elizabeth, 53, niece by marriage of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, at Wilderness House, Hampton Court palace, was announced today.

Italian by birth, she was married to Prince Andre, a son of Grand Duchess Xenia. She settled in England after the Russian revolution.

Her children, Prince Michael and Princess Xenia, became British subjects two years ago.

JAPS RETREAT

Chinese Troops Recapture City According to Reports.

CHUNGKING — (INS)—Japanese forces in China's Kwangsi province are in "full retreat" and Chinese troops have recaptured Lungchow, southwest of Nanning, it was reported in Chungking today.

A number of other towns also were reported captured by the Chinese, while Japanese forces, it was claimed, withdrew into Indo-Chinese territory.

FOUR KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Ship Burns As Pilot Attempts to Land On Field.

CHARLOTTE, Mich.—(AP)—Four men were killed last night when an airplane on a chartered flight from Chicago to Flint, Mich., crashed and burned in a bean field six and a half miles south of here as the pilot attempted to land.

The victims, all Chicagoans, were identified as Edward Whiting, the pilot, Don Schmitt, the Rev. L. K. Williams president of the Baptist Convention of America, and the Rev. William M. Haynes. The two clergymen were Negroes on their way to a Republican rally at Flint.

PILOT KILLED

American Flier Dies as Plane Is Attacked By Japs.

CHUNGKING, China—(INS)—An American-made Douglas transport plane was shot down by Japanese warplanes and its American pilot and eight Chinese passengers were killed, it was announced today.

Marking the second incident of its kind within 48 hours, the attack cost the life of W. C. "Foxey" Kent, a resident of Kentwood, La., who was instantly killed when the plane crashed under a hail of Japanese fire, it was said.

Earlier in the week, Japanese planes shot down a German-Eurasia passenger plane, injuring the German pilot and crew. No passengers were aboard this craft, however.

CAR CRASH KILLS THREE

RAVENNA—(AP)— An automobile struck a soft shoulder, hurdled a wire fence and turned over several times last night, killing Kenneth Bradfield, 27, William Kline, 60, and John Davis, 40, all of Ravenna.

MANSFIELDERS ARE PROMOTED

National Guard Officers Get New Rank, Positions at Camp Shelby.

Promotions and charges of positions in the 134th Field Artillery of the 37th division at Camp Shelby have taken a number of the "home town boys" away from their comrades, according to word from Capt. R. J. Nichols, who was in command of Battery D when it left here.

Nichols has been assigned to a place on the 2nd Battalion staff with Major Coleman Todd and Col. Helge Ekedahl, formerly of Mansfield. He had been in command of Battery D for the past three years and succeeded Todd, who in turn had succeeded Ekedahl. The battery is now under command of Capt. Edward Kish of Columbus.

Nichols said that the changes had been made in order to acquaint officers with various phases of army work.

Capt. Robert Springer, formerly with the Battery and more recently on battalion staff, has been transferred to regimental staff, and Second Lieutenant Albert Bell of the Battery has been transferred to Battery E.

There have been two promotions for Mansfield men since arrival at the Mississippi army camp. First Lieutenant Dale Uhlich of Battery D has been made captain and detailed to Headquarters Battery, and Capt. Harlus Critchfield, who has been with the supply company from Bucyrus, has won his major's gold leaf and taken over the work of executive officer of the First battalion of the 134th.

Nichols said that all of the men were comfortable and the morale splendid.

6 NEW BLIMPS

Akron Firm to Build Airships for Navy, Says Knox.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— In a move to double the navy's lighter-than-air craft, Secretary of the Navy Knox today announced that his department has ordered six new blimps.

The contract, totalling $1,324,000 went to the Goodyear Aircraft Corporation, Akron, O., which is to complete the non-rigid airships within a year.

Their Number's Up, But They Aren't Very Excited About It

By HAROLD VALENTINE

Possibly one of the reasons the three Richland county men who held registration number 158 were so calm when I told them yesterday that their number had come up first in the national lottery is that all three are married men and have children.

But like prospective draftees throughout the country they all appeared ready to accept the call to military service without question if they are needed.

These men, who probably will fall in the deferred classes, are Kenneth Raymond Cartnal, 218 West Third street, an assembly lineman at Westinghouse, Kenneth Leroy Troupe, 30, rear 196 East Fourth street, night foreman in shears department at the Dominion Electric company, and Merlin Edward Ruble, 27, R. D. 1, Shelby, an inspector at Humphryes Manufacturing company.

When Cartnal was advised that he held the first number drawn in the national lottery, at first a wry grin and then a broad smile spread over his face.

Cartnal has a wife and a two-

Mansfield High Students Give Bricker Margin Over Davey In Vote.

Wendell L. Willkie dropped from an early lead in the mock election being conducted at Senior high school today among 997 students and was trailing Franklin D. Roosevelt with the vote 176 to 163 shortly after noon.

John W. Bricker, meanwhile, was pulling ahead of his Democratic opponent Martin L. Davey.

In the first votes tallied this morning, Willkie had 74 votes to President Roosevelt's 66, while Bricker topped Martin L. Davey, 96 to 47.

The "election" was organized by the Social Science classes to follow closely the plan of the general elections Nov. 5.

Last Friday all students wishing to vote in the election were required to register at places designated by the election officials.

The school was divided into two wards and each ward into two precincts. Students voting this morning were required to go to the

Vital Documents Saved In Strange War Department Fire

ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF ORDERS FIRE INQUIRY

Code Room, Feared Damaged In Morning Blaze, Found To Have Been Unharmed.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Fire destroyed one and damaged two other new additions to the war department's office buildin.. early today, but officials believed all valuable documents were safe.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, ordered an immediate investigation. He revealed that in recent weeks there had been innumerable awning fires—as many as eight in one morning last week.

As a result of this morning's fire, new stringent rules for employes and visitors using the building will be put into effect.

There was no immediate estimate of the amount of damage. Col. G. D. Murphey, executive officer of the quartermaster general's corps, inspected the building an hour after the fire was out and said the fire damage was confined chiefly to new construction but that lower floors were damaged by water. He said that all valuable papers and equipment were in fire and water-proof files.

The new additions are fourth floors of the three-story building built during the World war. They were not completed.

The fire broke out in the wing housing the army's code room and spread quickly to two other wings.

All available fire equipment in the city and many companies from nearby Maryland and Virginia were called out. When Gen. Marshall arrived, he ordered 500 soldiers from nearby Ft. Myer to the scene to guard the building.

The building is on Constitution avenue, only a few blocks from the departmental auditorium where the last of the draft lottery numbers were being drawn. It is only two blocks from the south grounds of the White House.

The war department will operate on schedule today despite the fire. There will be no disruption of the work of the 9,000 employes in the building—not an hour's lost time on the defense program, Marshall said.

The fire was discovered a few minutes after 4 a. m., by building guard Thomas Tibbets.

Trucker Details His Activities as Strangling Alibi

EAST LIVERPOOL —(AP)— A 55-year-old produce trucker gave authorities a minute-by minute account of his activities as an alibi today against suspected connection with the strangling of Mrs. Julia Wall, 46, whose body was found in a potato barrel.

Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott said the man would be charged formally and arraigned late today before Municipal Judge Frank E. Grosshans.

Mrs. Wall was married five days ago. She formerly was a friend and employe of the suspect. His business consists of buying produce, loading it on his truck and peddling it either wholesale or retail.

The warm body of Mrs. Wall, feet protruding from the barrel, was found by a pedestrian early yesterday along a cinder lane 75 yards off a paved street.

Chief McDermott said it apparently was thrown from a vehicle but stopped short of a thicket into which it was intended to roll.

21 Battle for U. S. Corn-Husking Title

Although most of the duck hunters who have tried their luck at Charles Mill dam since the season opened have come home empty handed, state conservation officers have been doing all right for themselves, according to reports. During the past week the officers have been trapping the ducks and fastening a metal identification tag on their legs telling that they have been trapped at the dam. The ducks are then released. When the bird is shot, or caught by out-of-state conservation officers, the information is relayed back to Ohio officials. The whole idea is to compile accurate information on migration.

USE LEAF FROM OSR MEALBOOK

Ohio Pen Officials Inaugurate Cafeteria Plan Adopted Here 2 Years Ago.

Apparently taking a leaf from the Ohio State reformatory book on the art of serving warm meals, Ohio's largest kitchen is being streamlined.

Cafeteria service will start for the first time tomorrow in the Ohio penitentiary for about a fourth of the prison's 3,700 inmates, Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said today.

Warden Frank D. Henderson said the cafeteria method would assure the inmates warmer food and greater selection, in addition to saving time. Because there are 4,000 inmates, the prison's kitchen frequently has been publicized as the state's largest.

Plates of food are now placed on tables before inmates march into the dining room.

The cafeteria method of serving was introduced at the Ohio State reformatory nearly two years ago by Supt. Arthur L. Glattke when the institution opened its new $100,000 dining hall.

Glattke advocated the method in order not only to give the prisoner's warmer food but also to give them a better selection. After two years of operating on the cafeteria style, he claims that the method is more economical.

Glattke said numerous penal institution officials have come to Mansfield during operation of the new dining hall to observe the method.

POLICE HAVEN'T GONE RITZY, THEY JUST WANT SEDATE BALL

Mansfield's stalwart boys in blue and brass buttons are disturbed over the rumor that they have gone Junior League this year for their annual Policemen's ball.

They haven't—it's just the price that makes it sound that way. Last year and all the previous years the price of admission was 50 cents, while this year's ducats for a couple are $2 and $5.

And furthermore the law enforcement laddies are not doing any of the door-to-door, buttonholing-people-on-the-street soliciting. Not for the reason you may assume—that they've gone Ritzy—but out of consideration for merchants who in past years saw a policeman pop in the door every day to demand "Wanna ticket to the policeman's ball?"

This year the department decided to do their ticket selling in an orderly and systematic manner. They hired several clerks who sell the tickets by telephone campaign. The clerks are paid out of the proceeds and do not work on commission as has been reported.

One member of the department admitted privately that the main reason for jumping the tickets to the higher brackets was to get the affair back on the plane of a ball and not a brawl.

Last year 3,000 persons jammed into the Coliseum and presented a troublesome problem for police. To wit: it's pretty embarrassing to throw your own guests out on the ear because he celebrates too strenuously. This year the price will cut down the crowd and keep it to a more sedate group—police hope.

The $2 tickets admit a couple, but for a $5 patron's ticket you are announced as you enter the Coliseum and escorted across the floor.

Joe Sanders and his Nighthawks, nationally famous band, will play for the dance—another reason for the upped price. The date is Nov. 18.

Proceeds will go into the police fund to be used for range practice ammunition and for one yearly project on child traffic education which the police department will sponsor.

CAUSES DELAY

Rain Holds Up Concrete Work on West Fourth Street.

Yesterday's rain not only held up the pouring of concrete on West Fourth street but will extend the time required for it to dry, once more delaying work.

Mayor W. J. Locke said today that it will require four and a half days of pouring to complete the concrete work on the paving project and that the contractors had hoped to finish it next Monday. For every day of rain the work is delayed that much longer, he said.

The work of grading is nearing completion but this too depends on the weather. After the concrete work is finished it will require several days to finish laying the brick. After the brick is completed there will remain only the curbs to be finished.

STATE CHAMPS VIE TODAY IN IOWA FIELDS

100,000 Spectators Expected To Witness Top Sporting Event of Farm World.

(By Associated Press)

DAVENPORT, Ia.—Twenty-one brawny contestants matched skill and strength today in the nation's 17th corn-husking championships, agricultural America's top sporting event.

Winners-all in their own states, the weather-beaten experts of the furrows gathered for the 1940 nubbin derby in this Mississippi river section with a backdrop of fanfare that had all the aspects of an Iowa fair.

The Henry Keppy farm in Scott county, scene of the contest, teemed with the color significant to the midwest corn belt section.

A blimp provided sightseers with an aerial view of the big show; sound and news reel men in a farm wagon towed by a tractor recorded the scene for the nation's moviegoers, and a swing band hauled on a truck added a hot fillip to the proceedings.

An Indian delegation entertained with tribal dances, while just over the way tractors, combines, farm vehicles and seeders wove a circular course, all for the advertising benefit of an implement maker.

The vanguard of perhaps 100,000 spectators began arriving early today at the husking area, which embraced more than 3,500 acres in 20 farms. Possible yield of 95 bushels to the acre raised hopes for a new husking record to displace that of 41.52 made in 1935 by Elmer Carlon of Iowa.

Huskers must toss nubbins against the bangboards for one hour and 20 minutes, with judges following them step by step through the 60-acre field.

The top five winners get $100, $50, $25, $16, and $10 respectively.

DIES, AGED 79

Mifflin Township Resident Succumbs at Home.

A resident of this vicinity all his life, Calvin Balliett, 79, of Mifflin township, died at his home yesterday after a year's illness.

Born in 1861 in Mifflin township, he was a member of the Nazarene church. Mr. Balliett is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Earl Griffith of Mifflin township; a brother, Abram, of Weller township; and two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Friday in charge of Rev. Lena Brangenburg, pastor of the Nazarene church. Burial will be made in Emanuel cemetery.

Native of Lucas Succumbs to Long Illness; Rites Set

Mrs. Grace A. Cole, 60, of 152 North Franklin avenue, wife of Ralph H. Cole, died Tuesday following a lingering illness.

Born Aug. 28, 1880, in Lucas, Mrs. Cole spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the Lucas Congregational church.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Cole is survived by three daughters, Mrs. L. O. Boyer of Lucas, and Mrs. R. L. Means and Mrs. Jacob Schnerer, both of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Alex Ross of Mansfield; four half brothers, Walter and Oscar Jones of Lucas, Herschel Jones of Newville, and Dewey Jones of Butler, and 16 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home, with burial in Bellville cemetery. The body will be at the home of her daughter, Mrs Jacob Schnerer in Mansfield until Friday morning.

Harmon Continues to Pace All-America Backfield List

Texas Star Romps

Michigan Ace Seems To Be Unstoppable This Season.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tight defensive play last week stopped the spectacular football exploits of Jack Crain of Texas, Frank Reagan of Penn and Paul Christman of Missouri, but nothing short of a concrete wall, it appears, can halt Thomas Dudley Harmon of Michigan.

On the basis of his brilliant play not only against Penn last Saturday, but through the first month of the season, it is difficult to see how anything less serious than a broken leg could keep the Gary (Ind.) thunderbolt out of the All-America backfield for the second successive year.

Against previously-unbeaten Penn, Harmon scored one touchdown, passed for another, booted both extra points, gained 150 yards from scrimmage and added another 50 yards or so on passes, outkicked the highly-touted Reagan by a wide margin and generally comported himself like the All-America he is. Against Michigan's fine line play, Reagan never could get started, and even his kicking suffered as he sought desperately to angle the ball away from the ubiquitous Harmon.

Christman, one of the 1939 season's biggest thrill-providers, had a bad day against Nebraska, perhaps because his favorite receiver, Bob Steur, was not in the Missouri lineup. Backfield honors in this game went to Harry Hopp of Nebraska. Hopp's better known team-mate, Herman Rohrig, played only long enough to connect with two passes good for 48 yards and a touchdown.

All-America John Kimbrough and Blocker Jim Thomason, Texas A. & M. stars, once more paced the Aggies in their hard-won victory over Baylor, featuring a tough line. Kimbrough picked up 91 yards on 30 thrusts, looked good on defense and played 55 minutes. Thomason was in there the full 60.

Norman Standlee, tough fullback, has been a standout in most of Stanford's games so far, but last week against Southern California, he had to yield the palm to Frankie Albert. Stanford quarterback, a southpaw passer whose faking ability had the Trojans bewildered.

"I had him tied up like a couple of wrestlers," said Al Krueger, star Southern California end, "yet he got the ball away for completed passes."

John (Pepper) Petrella of Penn ton star, was a 60-minute player against California whose fullback, Jack McQuary, also was a standout.

Other head-liners during the past week include: George Franck, Minnesota, who scored four touchdowns against Iowa; Art Jones, Richmond, who scored all of his team's points in the upset of V. M. I.; Steve Juzwik and Milt Piepul of Notre Dame; Andy Marefos, St. Mary's line-cracker; Lou Rufalino and Hal McCullough of Cornell; John (Pepper) Petrella of Penn State; Jim Lalanne of North Carolina; Harvey Johnson of Mississippi State; Al Grygo of South Carolina; Dick McGowen of Auburn; Johnny Bosch of Georgia Tech, and Frank Sinkwich of Georgia.

Rating along with these on his performance last week were Langhurst and Scott of Ohio State.

All in How You Look at It!

Football, for the player, is all in how you look at it. Now you take the end charging in to block a punt. The kicker's foot looks mighty big, almost as big as shown in top picture. And then there's the tackler, about to bring down a runner. The straight-arm isn't a baby's paw by any diagnosis. The pass catcher finds the ball pretty small, not as big as shown in bottom photo. The pictures were posed in New York by Fordham's Vince Dennery, top; Len Eshmont, center, and Joe Ungerer.

Cleveland Rams Prepare For Invasion Of Detroit Lions

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Rams are preparing for the invasion of the Detroit Lions this week, following their first defeat at the hands of the Chicago Cardinals Sunday, 17 to 7. In the first meeting of these two teams the Lions came out on the long end of a 6 to 0 score, but the Rams hope to even the count when they clash in Municipal Stadium, Sunday, Nov. 3.

The Lions come to town well stocked with power, class, and general all-around football ability, and it will take a concentrated effort on the part of the Rams to dump the Motor City outfit. The great Byron "Whizzer" White, former All-American at Colorado, is the spearhead of the Detroit attack.

White led the National league in ground gaining with Pittsburgh in 1938, stayed out of professional ball last season to study on a Rhodes scholarship, and is again leading the league in yards gained with the Lions this season. The Whizzer is also an adept passer and punter, and he will be the man the Rams must stop if they are to triumph over the Detroiters.

Another man that figures in the Lions' victory march is the veteran Lloyd Cardwell. Cardwell has been named to numerous all-league teams during his stay in professional ball on the strength of his terrific swoops around the ends. The man that clears the way for the hard driving Detroit backs is Northwestern's former great, Fred "Chopper" Vanzo. Vanzo is a juggernaut on the offense and a bear on the defense, backing up the line.

The Lions have other scintillating backs in the persons of Howie Wiess, former All-American fullback at Wisconsin; Bill Shepherd, former Western Maryland great; and Cotton Price, the passing wizard from Texas A. & M.

The Lions forward wall is also well stocked with great performers. The pivot position is held down by the great Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham's rock of gran. A quartet of former Southern California stars play a major part in the Lions' success. Bill Fisk and ite. A quartet of former Southern California stars play a major part in the Lions' success. Bill Risk and Bobby Winslow, play the ends, and Bill Radevich and Harry Smith play the guards on the Lions' first line of defense.

The Rams now have a record of two wins against four losses and they cannot afford to lose another, so they'll be out for everything when they take the field next Sunday at 2 p. m. Injuries have played a main part in the defeats the Rams have taken. The latest blow being the injury to Johnnie Drake's head.

The Rams' big fullback suffered a slight concussion in the last period of the Cardinal game and had to be helped from the field.

Coach Dutch Clark, of the Rams, will be working hard in an effort to defeat the team of his former coach, Paisy Clark. The Cleveland mentor played six seasons under the Detroit pilot, and it will be master versus pupil when the teams tangle in Municipal Stadium, Sunday, Nov. 3.

State Not Fit

Publicity Director Says Team in Poor Physical Condition.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Now comes an official explanation for the oft asked question "What's wrong with Ohio State university's football team?"

It is "poor physical condition of the players," in the opinion of James L. Renick, director of athletics publicity for the university.

And Quarterback Don Scott is "too modest." That is another reason assigned by Renick for the losing streak which has toppled the powerful Buckeyes out of the high national rankings.

That question "What's wrong?" has had as many answers as there are Monday morning quarterbacks. It came right out in the open in a meeting of Ohio State alumni here and Renick replied with the most official explanation yet offered at this mid-season point.

"Our team is poorly conditioned," he said frankly. "Why that is true I just don't know. Our boys seem to lack the pep to play more than half a game at high speed. It may be lack of scrimmage or some other reason. I do know the physical condition of the squad is poor."

Renick blamed Scott, generally rated as one of the best quarterbacks in the country, as a possible element in bogging down Ohio State's attack.

"Scott is very sensitive and modest," he said, "and despite all argument, refuses to call his own signal at important moments when he should carry the ball. He does not want to monopolize the show.

"It has come to a point where I understand that Jim Langhurst (fullback) may call the signals hereafter but I am not sure the change has been ordered definitely."

* * *

Renick said he knew of no dissension whatever among team members.

Cornell Looks Like Cinch to Continue Pace

Undefeated Team to Meet Columbia Club.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Mighty Cornell, heading the list of seven eastern football teams with perfect records, today seems a lead pipe cinch to complete its second straight season undefeated and untied.

Cornell entertains Columbia at Ithaca this week and the Lions, who couldn't score against Syracuse, a team buried under 33 points by the Big Red, hardly has a chance. Yale, Dartmouth and Penn, final three opponents of Cornell also seemed outclassed.

Boston college, with a perfect record and ranked second to Cornell in the standings of the Lambert Memorial trophy, also has a good chance to come through with an unblemished record. The Bostonians engage Manhattan this week, but they still have to get by Georgetown and Auburn later in the season.

Georgetown risks its perfect record against a Syracuse eleven that nosed Columbia 3-0 last week.

Of the east's other four undefeated, untied clubs, Navy seems to have the toughest task in Penn, Franklin and Marshall, Lafayette, and Penn State are all favored over Albright, Washington - Jefferson, and South Carolina respectively.

The weakest Army team in years will be a pushover for Notre Dame in a continuation of their intersectional series at New York.

Supplies Will Play At Fairground Sunday

THE Automotive Supplies are going to strut their stuff before Mansfield followers Sunday at the Fairground in their initial home game.

Coach Earl McMullen's combine, which chalked up its first victory of the season last Sunday, tackles the touted Columbus Avondale Athletic club eleven at 2:30 p. m.

The Supplies, composed of former Mansfield grid players, are holding daily workouts at the County garage and are determined to chalk up victory No. 2.

The Capital city outfit is one of the strongest teams in Columbus, Fred Rizzo, Supply business manager announced today.

Cards to Witness Bears and Packers

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago Bears and Cardinals, national football league teams, are going to gang up on the Green Bay Packers Sunday.

* * *

The Cards, idle this week, will attend the Packers' pivotal battle with the Bears in a body to scout the pro champions in preparation for their game with Green Bay Nov. 10.

* * *

The Bears, fresh from a 37-21 shellacking of the New York Giants, will be going after their second victory of the season over the air-minded Packers. The Bears opened the campaign with a 41-10 decision on Green Bay's home gridiron.

Lima Players Go to Browns

Youngstown Club Selects 2 Pandas In Baseball Draft.

DURHAM, N. C. —(AP)— The Youngstown Browns of the Middle Atlantic league selected three players for trials at the opening of the Class C baseball draft today. Dayton of the same league selected one.

* * *

Youngstown added Pitcher Frank Biscan and Infielder Harlan Kiersey from Lima of the Ohio State league and Pitcher Ed Schraack from Lake Charles of the Evangeline loop.

Dayton drafted First Baseman Clarence Etchison from the Welch, W. Va., club of the Mountain State league.

The class C draft period closes at midnight, Oct. 31, winding up the 1940 selections. Class D will not have a period because there are no class E leagues from which to draft.

Northwestern Coach Makes 'Cats Tough

Team Turns Tables on Big Minnesota Combines.

EVANSTON, Ill.—(AP)—Some of the older settlers hereabouts can remember when Northwestern was just a pushover for the mighty Gophers of Minnesota.

But portly Lynn Waldorf, affable in a drawing room but fierce as they come on the gridiron, changed all that. Before Waldorf assumed charge of the Purple in 1935 Northwestern had won only five of 16 previous encounters with Minnesota.

Since then the Gophers have bowed to Waldorf machines three times in five games. Northwestern was the fourth team to kick a sub-par Bernie Bierman product in 1939, but the Wildcats' other two wins came against previously-undefeated teams.

All this and the fact that both are rolling along undefeated this season lends a touch of drama to this Saturday's encounter between the two in Dyche stadium.

The Wildcats have gone into this game the underdogs before. Back in 1936 a Waldorf-coached eleven faced undefeated Minnesota and won in a muddy setting, 6-0, snapping a Gopher winning streak at 21 games. In addition, that was the first game Minnesota had failed to win or tie in 29 starts.

Loudonville Meets Rivals Under Lights.

The Loudonville - Mt. Gilead high school football game scheduled Friday night at Loudonville, has been moved up and will be played under the lights at Loudonville at 8 p. m. Thursday, according to an announcement made today by John Kerkes, Loudonville coach. The game has been moved up to Thursday due to the annual Northeastern Ohio Teachers association meeting being held this week in Cleveland.

HOLDS INVESTIGATION ON 'SPONGING' OF HORSES

CINCINNATI, O.—(U.P.)—Stewards at the River Downs race track continued their investigation today into "sponging" of four horses in races Monday.

In addition to the original reports that sponges were inserted in the nostrils of Odessa's Pride and Caravel, veterinarian M. J. Siereveld said Whistling and Senechal also had been "sponged." The stewards said they had no "tangible" clues to the illegal acts.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

CHICAGO—(AP)—For a man who doesn't have a false moustache, a pair of gumshoes or a skeleton key to his name, I do a pretty good job of snooping.

Here I've been in Chicago fewer than 24 hours, yet already I have snooped enough to get a fairly good lowdown on why the Pacific conference is so anxious to make the Rose Bowl game a closed affair between one of its members and a representative of the Big Ten.

The coast schools are such a move as a stupendous cop-out cleaning up intercollegiate football. For some reason or another football out there in the Golden West is going pop. Either the boys have had enough glory and made enough money, or else they have finally decided that cleanliness is next to godliness.

Their G-man investigation, Dr. Win Atherton is probing through every gridiron keyhole and saying to it that things are kept in order.

This sudden shift to the finer and higher things made the selection of a Rose Bowl opponent a bit difficult. The coast boys could not get the holy Ivy league schools or the Army or the Navy or Notre Dame. With the Big Ten opposed to post season games the coast had to get a Rose Bowl rival from the Southeastern or Southwestern conferences. This, it was decided, wouldn't do.

Because the boys in Dixie and the Southwest openly admit subsidization and will tell you not only the names and numbers of the players, but the salaries.

So the coast went to work on the midwestern powers. It argued, and with much success, that if Northwestern, Michigan and the others would participate in the Rose Bowl the big games would be played in the stadiums of the nation's largest cities. Thus the gate receipts would be large and the players would receive a big slice of the profits.

The chances are right now, I gathered with a bit of delicate eavesdropping, that the western schools will vote in favor of making the trip to Pasadena.

BOWLING GREEN — (INS) — Coach Harry Ockerman of Bowling Green state university today searched for a capable running back to replace Capt. Steve Brudzinski, Fremont, O., who has been out for nearly two weeks with an infected elbow. Ockerman fears that Brudzinski will not be ready for the Falcons' clash with undefeated Kent state in an Ohio conference game at Bowling Green Saturday.

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) —With four victories apiece, two of Ohio's undefeated football teams, Oberlin and Wittenberg, will clash at Springfield Saturday. The contest marks Oberlin's first Ohio conference tilt this season, the Yeoman having won four in a row from out-of-state opponents. Wittenberg has won three conference tilts and last Saturday drubbed Lawrence Tech, 20-0.

DELAWARE, O. — (INS) — Ohio Wesleyan's undefeated but thrice-tied Bishops, will take it easy this week to give injured members a chance to rest up for Saturday's tough tilt against Xavier in Cincinnati, Coach George Gauthier said today.

DENISON—(INS)—Heartened by last week's return to the victory column after three straight defeats, Denison's big red gridders will renew the oldest collegiate football feud in the state at Wooster Saturday. Saturday's will be the 25th renewal of a half-century old rivalry. Denison and Wooster first met in 889. Wooster had 12 wins, Denison nine and three contests ended in ties.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(INS)—Apparently little perturbed at the prospect of taking on Notre Dame at Yankee Stadium in New York Saturday, Capt. Bill Wood, coach of the Army team, today planned to start an all sophomore backfield.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—Coach Fritz Crisler, thankful for an open date this Saturday, today looked for the University of Michigan team to be at "full strength" when the whistle blows for the Nov. 9th game with Minnesota, a team the Wolverines haven't beaten since 1932.

EVANSTON, Ill.—(INS)—Bill De Correvont, Northwestern's halfback star, may miss Saturday's important Big Ten clash with Minnesota, it was reported today. Trainers said the ankle injury which kept De Correvont out of last week's Indiana game, still handicaps the player.

MINNEAPOLIS —(INS)—Minnesota's Gophers worked on new offensive formations today in preparation for Saturday's meeting with Northwestern. The squad is being worked hard for the game, in which Minnesota will be seeking its first win on Northwestern's home grounds in 11 years. Both elevens are unbeaten.

NOTRE DAME, Ind —(INS)—Special treatments were being given today to Capt. Milt Piepul, Notre Dame fullback ace, in the hope he can be brought back into condition for the invasion of New York to play Army Saturday. Piepul suffered a bruised hip and torn side muscles in the Illinois game and it was considered doubtful he would be ready to face the Cadets.

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Carnegie Tech's Tartans took to the mud in workouts today preparatory to entraining for Saturday's game in Ohio against Cincinnati university. The Skibos ignored rainy weather and scrimmaged in the muck of their campus field.

DETROIT—(INS)—The undefeated university of Detroit was confident today it would be six straight this season after Saturday's tilt with Tulsa. The Detroiters will be playing at home.

HARRIS ON INSIDE?

Around here, they believe Bucky Harris will be first choice, and that if he comes too high, Alva Bradley will reach down in that fish bowl and draw Luke Sewell's number. . . . Everybody here is glad Holy Cross spiked those reports Coach Joe Sheetkeski won't be back. . . .

Physical Culturist Artie McGovern told one of the camp-bound New York regiments he would charge the boys a couple of hundred smackers for what the army will give 'em for nothing. Well, that's something . . . Nomination for the football owl championship: San Jose State, which plays eight games under the arcs this season.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

H. G. Salsinger, Detroit News: "Referring to Notre Dame as the best team Elmer Layden has ever developed is an under-statement. . . . Notre Dame is probably the best six teams Layden has ever developed."

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

Lou Nova starts his comeback tonight against Joe somebody at Oakland. . . . Mickey Walker heads west soon to referee a White Hope tournament at Cheyenne, Wyo. . . . Up in Canada, they're planning to erect a permanent memorial to the Edmont commercial grads, former international women's basketball champs who disbanded this year when competition ran out. . . . Mel Ott of the Giants has bought a new home in gay New Orleans.

WELL, SOME SAY SO.

In other words, Ohio State considers Carl Snavely a pretty fair country quarterback.

CLEVELAND BARONS OPEN SEASON WITH BEARS

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The Cleveland Barons will open their American league hockey season against the Hershey Bears in the Arena tonight.

The Barons, boasting more power than they have had in years, have won three exhibition games from the Pittsburgh Hornets, but have not as yet met the Bears, who finished second in the league's western division last year.

Piles—Get Relief Now

Millions of sufferers in the last 30 years have found a way to get quick relief from the itching and smarting of piles. They use a delightful cooling, soothing and astringent formula — Peterson's Ointment. No wonder one sufferer writes, "The itching and smarting stopped, and I slept all night. Peterson's Ointment is marvelous." 35c a box, all druggists, 60c in tube with applicator. Money back if not delighted.

SPORTS CHATTER

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Short rides on the Buckeye sports merry-go-round!

Looks like we had our signals crossed the other day when we wrote a piece for the papers about the duck hunters not liking the new sunrise shooting hour which replaced the old 7 a. m. starting time.

* * *

We had the state conservation department responsible for the change, but now we find the law is a federal one and the Ohio department had nothing to do with it. Anyway, the paragraph about this column not getting a shot in two full days was gospel.

* * *

These Wolfe brothers of Upper Sandusky are doing okeh. Fenton the big brother at Heidelberg, is tied for the state collegiate scoring lead with 48 points, while little brother Russell has counted 76 of Upper Sandusky's 103 points this year. Nice guys to have around.

* * *

So Charley Anderson, Ohio's big end from Massillon, who hasn't needed an understudy all year, is getting one? There are two reasons why Ed Massie, the sophomore halfback from Wellsville, is getting the job. One is that he's a fine ball carrier, and can be used on those end-around plays.

* * *

The other is a rumor that Charley's books have been throwing him for a loss, and he may not be available next season. Well, if it's true, the books are doing something that opposing linemen can't do to the husky negro, who in our book has been the best Buckeye on the loose this year.

* * *

Now you tell us why Capt. Jim Langhurst is taking over some of Don Scott's signal-calling chores. It isn't part of the rebuilding campaign for 1941, while Jim won't be back, while Don, the pre-season choice as "the back of the year," will be on deck.

HORSES TAMPERED WITH

CINCINNATI—(AP)— Further investigation into the sponging of horses at River Downs disclosed yesterday, stewards said, that two other entries in the Monday's six-horse fifth race had been tampered with. Sponges were found in the noses of Odessa's Pride and Caravel, Jack Young, presiding track judge, said.

SEEK NEW PARK FOR 'HOME' CONTESTS

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)—Dana King, manager of the Cincinnati Bengals pro football club, was quoted today as saying the Bengals may play their remaining "home" games at Charleston, W. Va., because of "unreasonable" rental demands for a gridiron in Cincinnati.

Phil Bucklew, manager of the Columbus Bulls, who play with the American pro league with the Bengals, said King told him about the Charleston negotiations this week.

If every motorist really understood our Guaranteed Starting offer . . .
SOHIO
STANDARD OIL
The STANDARD OIL Co.
. . . SOHIO stations would look like this!

● Yes, sir, if every car owner realized how free—and how swell—Guaranteed Starting is, we'd actually have a hard time handling the business we'd get! Even though it has been in operation four straight winters, some motorists still can't believe that it's absolutely free with just regular winter precautions. And many still think it's just an advertising idea, that there's a "catch" in it somewhere.

But what a different reaction you get from people who have had the guarantee! A recent survey shows that 95.6% of those who had it last year will get it again this winter!

If you have never had your car guaranteed to start every time, all winter long—don't miss that solid feeling of security any longer. There's no extra cost, nothing more to do than the regular winter precautions you take at any service station. So don't take a chance on starting trouble this winter—turn all that worry over to SOHIO!

THIS WILL HELP YOU UNDERSTAND IT

FREE Get Guaranteed Starting With Just Regular Winter Precautions!

Motor oil, gear oil, gasoline, your battery winter-tested—that's all you need. No "red tape." You get our written certificate with just these regular SOHIO winter-grade products and our winter battery service.

That's why we say Guaranteed Starting is free—there's absolutely nothing extra to buy.

HOW YOU ARE PROTECTED—No matter how cold it gets from now until April 1, 1941, we guarantee your motor starts. If you ever fail to start, just call a garage to start your motor—and Standard Oil will pay the garage starting bill.

SOHIO

"YOU START, OR WE PAY!"—STANDARD OIL

FOUR SEEKING TWO POSTS IN OHIO'S SENATE

District of Which Richland Forms a Part To Elect Two Members This Year.

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of articles designed to better acquaint News-Journal readers with candidates seeking county and district public offices at the Nov. 5 election.)

For the first time in a number of years the state senatorial district of which Richland county is a part, will have two senators in the upper house of the state assembly next year. The number of senators is determined by the population and changes—if at all—after a federal census.

Duties of a state senator are similar to those of county representatives, to interpret the wishes of his constituents to the legislative body of the state. Richland county is a part of the old 27 and 29th district which is now made up of Richland, Medina, Ashland and Lorain counties.

There are four candidates on this year's ballots, two Republicans and two Democrats, three from Lorain and one from Grafton, Lorain county. Thumb-nail biographies of the candidates are given here:

Pliny Hart Rogers, Republican, present senator, is a native of Grafton. . . . Received his education in Grafton and Findlay schools . . . Is a "dirt farmer" and operates a 120-acre farm. . . . Interested in the problems of farmers and belongs to the Farm bureau and the Lorain county grange. . . . Represented Lorain county in the lower house of the state assembly for five consecutive terms, and was elected to the state senate two years ago. . . . He is a member of the Methodist church and the Masonic orders . . . Family consists of a wife and five children, four girls and one boy, all married.

Born in New York City under Brooklyn bridge, William F. Hurley, Democratic candidate for the office, is an Ohioan by adoption. . . . At 15 started study of law in New Jersey and at 17 matriculated at New York university law school, graduating at 20. . . . Admitted to bar on 21st birthday and started practice in Hoboken. . . . At 25 elected to New Jersey state assembly. . . . Also practiced law in Wyoming and then back to Brooklyn. . . . A resident of Lorain for past 20 years. . . . Has no hobbies. . . . Member of Catholic church of Lorain. . . . Married, has no children. . . . Served one term in state senate four years ago.

Joseph Jameson, Republican candidate, is a registered pharmacist, at one time operating a chain of three drug stores in Lorain. . . . Served as postmaster in that city for more than 12 years, having been appointed by President Harding and re-appointed by Presidents Coolidge and Hoover. . . . Also served his native city in city council, first as councilman-at-large and later as president of council. . . . Was born at Bryan and attended Ohio Northern university at Ada. . . . Came to Lorain to live in 1905 and was in business for 25 years. . . . Married and has two children. . . . First time as candidate for state office.

* * *

A native son of Central Ohio's "hog and corn belt" is Maurice C. Brown, Democratic candidate for the office, and a descendant of one of the state's pioneer families. . . . Educated in the public schools and studied engineering and business management in night schools. . . . Was a contractor for a number of years. . . . Now is business manager for a chain of theaters in Lorain and Erie counties. . . . Has served Lorain as councilman-at-large. . . . At the May primaries carried 48 out of 49 precincts, losing one precinct by three votes. . . . Is a Methodist, a widower and the father of two daughters.

Postoffice Officials Start Making Trips to Homes of Bedfast and Crippled.

Postoffice officials announced today that nearly 900 of the expected 1,000 aliens to register in the Richland county area had already registered at the postoffice since opening day, Aug. 27.

On the basis of present figures, postoffice officials said today that the number of aliens to register here would undoubtedly exceed the 1,000 mark.

Although application blanks have been available at the postoffice since August, aliens continued to ask for the blanks, officials said.

Meanwhile, George H. Hoover, in charge of the fingerprinting of aliens, has been making trips to homes of crippled and bedfast aliens, unable to come to the postoffice for registration, to register them.

Although no definite date has been set, Hoover said today that Ohio State Reformatory inmates, inmates of the various county homes, and others unable to come to the postoffice would be registered sometime before the Christmas rush begins at the postoffice. Final day for registering is Dec. 26.

LET CONTRACT TO BUY MILE OF WATER PIPE

City Officials Award Job To Chicago Company on Bid of $14,896.

With construction of a new high-capacity water main scheduled to get under way early next month, city officials today announced award of the contract for purchase of the pipe.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said the contract, for nearly a mile of 16-inch pipe to be used on the project has been awarded to the U. S. Pipe and Foundry company, Chicago, lowest of four bidders, on the firm's bid of $14,896.20.

The company's proposal was nearly $500 lower than the closest competitor, the James B. Clow company of Chicago, which submitted a price of $15,363.50. Other bids included the Central Foundry company, New York City, $16,969.50, and the American Cast Iron Pipe company, Cleveland, $15,365.50.

Contract for several valves and six tons of fittings to be used on the project was awarded to the Rensselaer Valve company of Pittsburgh, last week, on its bid of $1,525.31. The company was the lowest of seven bidders.

The supplies are being purchased for the construction of a new high capacity main from Lexington avenue and Blanche street, an extension of a line laid two years ago on Cook road and Lexington avenue, to the mercantile district.

Cost of the project involves expenditure of $68,000. It is set up to provide for WPA assistance, the government agency furnishing approximately 100 men for a four-month period.

The main is to be laid on Mendota street, South Mulberry street, Glessner avenue, Crouse street, Weldon avenue to a line recently laid on West Fourth street.

City council two months ago appropriated $28,000 from the waterworks surplus to finance the city's share of the cost which includes purchase of the materials.

READY TO BUILD

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Mayor Floyd F. Green was informed by Curtiss-Wright corporation officials Saturday that final legal steps had been taken for erection of a $10,000,000 airplane factory here.

NEW BIDS FOR ELEVATOR AT COURTHOUSE LOWER BY $1,089

Richland county commissioners opened new bids yesterday on the installation of an elevator in the courthouse and found they had better luck with their second request for bids on the project.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board, said, however, that contracts would not be awarded until after election.

The new bids, which totaled $1,089 less than previous bids on the same project, amounted to $14,844. The estimated cost was $15,000. Previous bids were rejected because they were $933 above the estimated cost.

Low bidder on the elevator mechanism was the Westinghouse Elevator company, Cleveland, the low bidder before. The bid was for $8,482.

P. J. Zeiher, Mansfield, submitted the low bid on the installation work, asking $5,811 for the job, while the Richland Electric company, Mansfield, was the only bidder on the electrical work. Its bid was $551.

Other bidders on the elevator and the amounts they asked were: Capital Elevator company, Columbus, $8,510; Otis Elevator company, Cleveland, $8,977; Haughton Elevator company, Toledo, $9,071, and Warner Elevator company, Cincinnati, $9,859.

Only other bidder on the installation was the firm of Friebel and Hartman, Shelby, asking $7,149.

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

DEADLINE SET

Saturday Last Day to Ride Bikes Without Licenses.

Bicycle riders who have not obtained their license tags, will find themselves in the same position as a motorist without auto tags after next Saturday, Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today.

Saturday is the deadline for riding bicycles without a license, Bates said, and any found on the streets after that time without a tag, will be impounded by police and held until a license is secured.

Bates said there were between 1,500 and 2,000 bikes in the city and that today only about 900 licenses have been issued. Tags will be issued again next Saturday at City building.

Richland County Is Now Free of Debt

During the period from 1930 to 1933 Richland County was in debt approximately $1,250,000.00. During the past seven years it has been completely paid off.

THE FIRST ADMINISTRATION IN 20 YEARS TO COLLECT DELINQUENT TAXES

The Commissioners, Treasurer, Prosecutor, Recorder, Engineer, Auditor, Clerk of Courts and Sheriff formed a committee of the whole to plan a tax collection program with this unusual achievement.

1933 Delinquent Taxes Were $543,562.10
At Present Delinquent Taxes Are $199,631.78
Amount Paid $343,930.32

Welfare Requirements Have More Than Doubled

Large sums have been annually required of this county for indigent Tuberculosis Patients' care. Aid to dependent children, blind relief, widows' pensions, soldiers' pensions, together with other welfare activities, have more than doubled in the past few years.

551.53 MILES OF SECONDARY ROADS WERE CONSTRUCTED AND RECONSTRUCTED

187 New Bridges and 9 Miles of Guard Railing Were Built

ALL THIS WAS ACCOMPLISHED WITH A VERY LOW OPERATING TAX LEVY

Richland County's operating tax levy is 2.5 mills, which is as low or lower than any county in Ohio with a population of 50,000 or more.

OUTLINES NEEDS OF CITY PARKS IN LEVY PLEA

Park Commission Chairman Says Mansfield Youngsters Need a 'Break.'

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of stories by city officials explaining the need for passage of the one-mill levy at the Nov. 5 election and how the levy will benefit their respective departments. Today's article deals with functions of the parks department.)

By ROY VAUGHN
Chairman, City Board of Park Commissioners

Parks and recreation are a definite part or factor in any community in regulating the growth and character of that community.

From the juvenile standpoint, there is to be considered first, however, the home, school and church. But what about leisure time? Will we, as parents, turn our children loose on the streets to find and furnish their own recreation, or will we give them clean wholesome outdoor activities under proper environment?

To do this we must have a definite and planned program. As a prime requisite city parks and playgrounds must be maintained with proper supervision before this can be accomplished.

The boys and girls of today are the Mansfielders of tomorrow. Why not give these youngsters the break they deserve?

It is our opinion that from a character building standpoint—learning how to play and associate with others that the parks and playgrounds are the most democratic agencies in the city where social equality is manifest.

Let's consider the parks and playgrounds from an adult standpoint.

With shorter working hours in industry today, what happens?

Industry as well as all branches of social and economic life realize that proper recreation and relaxation makes for better and more satisfied workmen and citizens.

Today adults, the same as the youngsters, have turned to the parks for their recreation with the result that in Mansfield as well as other cities they have organized baseball, golf, tennis and football teams.

We have in Mansfield during the summer months 40 organized adult kittenball teams. The result is that with only three or four playing fields the grounds were occupied by the teams and the youngsters were deprived of a place to play.

Further evidence that parks play a big place in American life today is seen in the fact that practically every state in the union, Ohio included, spends huge sums annually maintaining state and roadside parks. (Try and find a vacant table or fireplace at one of these spots some Sunday evening.)

Mansfield has approximately 145 acres of some of the finest park land in the state of Ohio. It is recognized by the public as such. But what have we done about improving it?

Little or nothing. The city provides a budget of about $16,000 annually for the maintenance of these grounds, but in addition, the five park associations in the city contribute another $5,000 to $7,000 each year for improving facilities that are used by the entire city.

This burden cannot be continued indefinitely by a group of a few hundred individuals.

U. S. census figures show us that Mansfield is one of the two cities in the nation that doubled its population in the past 20 years yet our parks, in most part, have not been improved to take care of this growth.

True, there has been some development, but again, primarily by a group of individuals who gave unstintingly of their time and money to make these improvements possible.

With the limited funds derived from the city treasury for park purposes it has been impossible to develop and improve the park system to keep pace with the growing demands of a growing city.

So let's vote "YES" on the one-mill levy at the Nov. 5 election and give Mansfield the things that are lacking in its parks—furnaces, shelter houses, new trees and shrubs, and the proper maintenance of this beautiful acreage to protect it against deterioration.

We need new roads and equipment too and manpower to give adequate care to valuable property.

THEATERS

Romance of the City.

"Angels Over Broadway" is the tenderly human story of a romance born between dusk and dawn on a murky rain-swept Times Square night. The picture is playing at the Ohio with Douglas Fairbanks, jr. and Rita Hayworth co-starred. It is a tale of four ordinary people in several walks of life and their own little dramas. Thomas Mitchell is seen as a drunken dramatist who straightens out the unhappy, tangled lives of three persons.

Incidents of Present War.

Based on three major naval incidents in World war, 2nd, those of the Graf Spee, the Altmark and the City of Flint, "Mystery Sea Raider," playing at the Madison, shows for the first time the story behind the commerce raiding on the high seas in wartime. Henry Wilcoxon and Carole Landis are in the leading roles. Co-feature is "Golden Gloves," which tells the story of a young amateur boxer who for the sheer love of sport, battles his way to the heavyweight championship. Richard Denning and Jean Cagney are co-starred.

James Hilton Novel.

"We Are Not Alone" is the movie showing at the Ritz and stars Paul Muni and Jane Bryan. It is taken from the best-seller novel by James Hilton and tells of a small town English doctor. It is a story of a neither happy nor melancholy life of this man in a little cathedral town and of how the pattern of that life was shattered by the coming of a little Austrian dancer to the community. Second feature is "Alias the Deacon," with Bob Burns in the lead.

Halloween Party.

Special attraction at the Park Thursday night will be a Halloween party on the stage, with a variety of contests, costume parade and refreshments for all patrons. Included in the bill are the double feature "Winter Carnival" with Ann Sheridan and Richard Carlson in the leads and "Bullet Code," starring George O'Brien and Virginia Vale. The latter tells of the cattle rustlers terrorizing the border ranches, and against them the fastest "gun" the West has ever known.

ON DEMOCRACY

GALION—The Galion Classroom Teachers' association, at its regular meeting Tuesday after school, held a discussion on the subject, "Shall We Indoctrinate in Our Schools for Democracy." The leader was Edward Garverick, and arguments for and against were presented by Charles Aplas and Walter Sindlinger. A general discussion followed.

R. W. Patterson presided for the meeting. Musical features included violin numbers by Gale Shriner, and songs by Naomi Girton.

SIX PRECINCTS HAVE DIFFERENT VOTING PLACES

Election Board Announces Changes To Be In Effect on Election Day.

Voters in six precincts in Mansfield and Madison township will cast their ballots at new voting places next Tuesday, county election board officials said today.

Voters in precincts D and E of Madison township who have been voting in the Madison theater building, will vote outside the city this time.

Precinct D voters will cast their ballots at the Sinclair service station at West Fourth street road and Trimble road. Those in precinct E will vote at the Mansfield Metal Vault company offices at 210 West Longview avenue.

In Mansfield, the precinct A voting place in the Second ward has been moved to the L. F. Daugherty residence, 275 Marion avenue. It formerly was in Young's pool room, 304 Marion avenue.

Voters in precinct K of the Third ward will go to the Sun Glow offices at 270 West Sixth street to cast their ballots. They have been voting at the Taylor Metal Products company offices.

The voting booth in precinct G of the Third ward will be at the Russell L. Berno home, 177 Penn avenue. It was moved from Myers' garage, West Fifth and Penn avenue.

In precinct E of the Sixth ward, the voting booth will be located at the Charles Stutz home, 236 East First street. At the last election it was at the John Stors home, 235 East First street.

SUIT SETTLED

$1,000 Action Dismissed as Parties Reach Terms.

A $1,000 damage suit was settled for approximately $25 yesterday afternoon in common pleas court after a jury had heard a part of the evidence in the trial of the case.

A settlement was reached unexpectedly when Clarence Connor, defendant in the case, agreed to fill in an excavation in front of the home of Harry E. Sargent in Coolridge Heights so Sargent can use the driveway. Cost of the work was estimated by Atty. Van C. Cook, defense counsel, at about $25.

Sargent had sued Connor for damages, contending excavation work along Bowles avenue closed his driveway.

It was the first case the new petit jury had been called to hear in several weeks. The jury was excused after the settlement was reached, and Clerk of Courts Fred R. Zellner said there were no other cases on the docket for this week.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— Window Shopping

By Harold Gray

SAM! ANNIE! I DON'T UNDERSTAND- YOU'RE FOOLING! YOU DON'T MEAN I COULD HAVE THIS DRESS SHOP TO RUN, JUST THE WAY I WANT TO?
EXACTLY- THAT- I TOOK AN OPTION ON IT TO HOLD IT FOR YOU-
10-30-40
BUT WAIT-- IT COSTS MONEY TO GET GOING IN A PLACE LIKE THIS- RENT-STOCK-EQUIPMENT- IT TAKES A LOT OF MONEY--AND I--I-- I HAVEN'T---
YOU HAVE NO MONEY? BUT WE KNOW THAT--! HAVE A LITTLE MONEY-
NO! NO, SAM- YOU'RE A SWELL GUY, BUT I CAN'T TAKE YOUR DOUGH- IT ISN'T DONE- NOT IN MY CIRCLE, ANYWAY-
HA! HA! MAYBE YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND- I AM NOT AN 'ANGEL'-- I AM JUST A BUSINESS MAN-
PROPERLY RUN, THIS SHOP WILL SUCCEED- YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO RUN IT-- I LEND YOU THE MONEY--LATER, YOU PAY IT BACK-- ISN'T THAT FAIR ENOUGH?
OH! IT'S THE SORT OF PLACE I'VE DREAMED OF SINCE I WAS A KID-

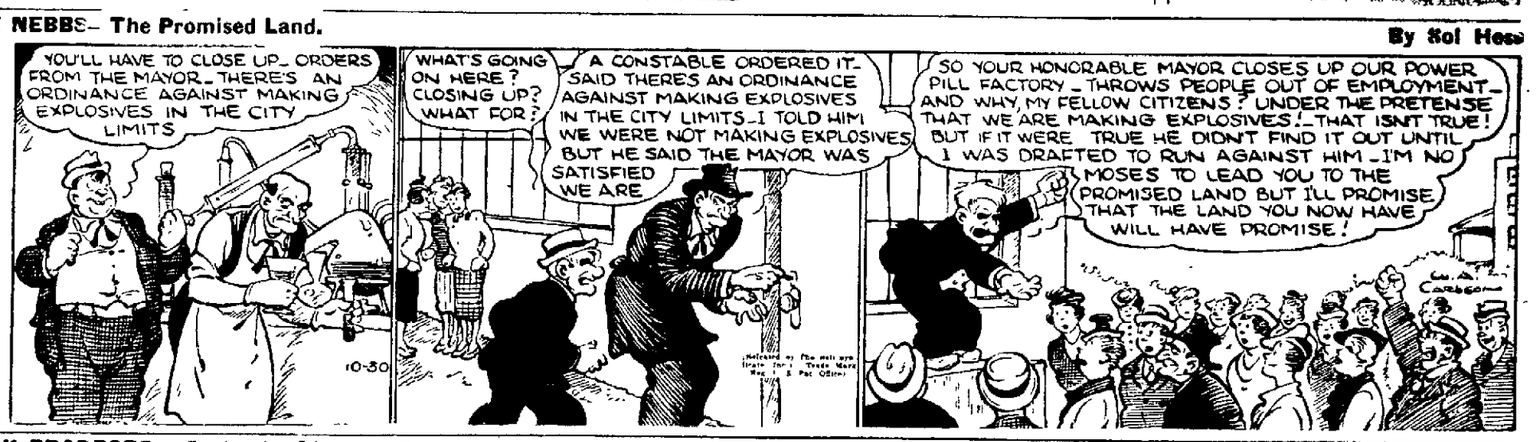
YOU'RE LEAVING? - WHY, ANN!
YES, I'M OUT OF A JOB, PAM! THE BOSS IS MOVING HIS OFFICE TO CHICAGO! - SAYS I CAN STILL HAVE MY JOB IF I'LL GO - BUT I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE HOME!
HE'S RECOMMENDED ME TO A MAN HERE, TOO, AND I'M GOING DOWN TO SEE ABOUT IT THIS MORNING - BUT I'LL SURE MISS BEING NEAR YOU, PAM - JUST HEAPS!
OH - I'LL MISS YOU TOO, ANN!
THUS, ANN GIVES HER ALIBI FOR FADING OUT OF THE PICTURE!

THE NEBBS— The Promised Land.

By Sol Hess



YOU'LL HAVE TO CLOSE UP- ORDERS FROM THE MAYOR- THERE'S AN ORDINANCE AGAINST MAKING EXPLOSIVES IN THE CITY LIMITS
10-30
WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? CLOSING UP? WHAT FOR?
A CONSTABLE ORDERED IT- SAID THERE'S AN ORDINANCE AGAINST MAKING EXPLOSIVES IN THE CITY LIMITS- I TOLD HIM WE WERE NOT MAKING EXPLOSIVES BUT HE SAID THE MAYOR WAS SATISFIED WE ARE SO YOUR HONORABLE MAYOR CLOSES UP OUR POWER PILL FACTORY - THROWS PEOPLE OUT OF EMPLOYMENT- AND WHY, MY FELLOW CITIZENS? UNDER THE PRETENSE THAT WE ARE MAKING EXPLOSIVES!- THAT ISN'T TRUE! BUT IF IT WERE TRUE HE DIDN'T FIND IT OUT UNTIL I WAS DRAFTED TO RUN AGAINST HIM - I'M NO MOSES TO LEAD YOU TO THE PROMISED LAND BUT I'LL PROMISE THAT THE LAND YOU NOW HAVE WILL HAVE PROMISE!

STOCK LEADERS SHIFT TODAY IN TIMID MARKET

Traders Wait Directional News Developments; Election Is One of Stoppers.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock leaders shifted uncertainly in a timid market today as trades awaited directional news developments.

Among steadier shares were Douglas, Glenn Martin, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, General Electric, Western Union and American Telephone.

Bonds and commodities made scattered gains. The London market was fairly steady, although trading was slack.

Analysts cited the election and the war as the chief brakes on trading activity.

Epithets Fly Fast In Elections Fraud Investigation

HAGUE TRADES JIBES WITH QUESTIONER

Calls Senator Tobey's Son 'Willie' Arousing Ire of Investigator.

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—A United States senate subcommittee's investigation of election fraud charges in Jersey City and other parts of New Jersey, was denounced and ridiculed by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City yesterday as a "ten cent, picayune political inquiry intended to deprive President Roosevelt of the state's 16 electoral votes.

Recriminations flew fast and furiously between Hague and Senator Tobey (R-NH), consuming so much of the two-hour session that little time was left to the question of fraud. After the turbulent hearing, to which Hague was subpoenaed when he refused to appear voluntarily, the committee adjourned until after election.

Hague repeatedly asked Tobey about conditions in New Hampshire when the senator quizzed him concerning his Democratic stronghold of Hudson county.

Asked what was the debt of Jersey City, Hague retorted:

"What's the debt of New Hampshire?" Then pointing to Tobey's son and secretary he said: "Look at Willie whispering in his ear."

Angered, Tobey jumped up and said the youth's name was not "Willie" but Charles and that he wasn't whispering. He then pointed to Hague's nephew and Secretary Frank Hague Eggers and said:

"How about that bird prompting you?"

This time Hague arose, shaking a finger at Tobey, and yelled:

"Don't call my nephew a bird. Dont' act like a loafer. I want to say to you, senator, you are very insulting. I didn't come here to be insulted. I resent your attitude. Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) chairman of the campaign expenditures committee, should be ashamed at putting you on this committee."

At another point, during a series of questions concerning Hague's income, which Tobey said far exceeded his salary as mayor, the vice chairman of the Democratic national committee shouted counter-charges against Tobey's alleged "phoney stocks."

"You're silly and acting like a child; you just can't take it," Tobey said.

"Not from a lunatic who should be in a mental hospital," Hague retorted.

MEN INDICTED

Former Policeman Held on Grand Jury Charge.

CANTON — (AP) — A former policeman and three other men were indicted by a grand jury yesterday for receiving and concealing stolen property. Two of the men were accused of stealing the property.

Jack Dye, 26, arrested by state highway patrolmen at Steubenville after a high-speed automobile chase, was discharged from the Canton police force several months ago. Prosecutor A. C. L. Barthelmeh charged him with being in possession of 16 new tires reported stolen from a service station here.

Indicted with Dye were Steve Grznar, 23, of Steubenville, and John Luzio, 32, and Jack Danilkovic, 21, both of Canton. Danilkovic and James Gardner, 18, of Canton, were indicted for burglary and larceny of the tires.

appropriations, whereas Congress later voted money and contract authorizations for additional $10,000,000,000.

"Thus," the nominee added, "he was only 1-40th right."

In his second Charleston speech, a national radio broadcast from his private pullman car, Willkie argued that the president "sought to place the whole blame for the accumulation of present problems upon a small group within the minority party."

"Throughout America, there is a term for this kind of thing which every American understands," he continued. "That term, as applied to his broadcast last (Monday) night, is 'he passed the buck.'"

At the last minute, Willkie added a few paragrahps to his speech to criticize the administration for having an ambassador on the job in only one major European capital, Moscow.

"Some of these ambassadors," he said, "are home taking active part in a partisan political campaign, and of course that is all with the approval of the third term candidate."

As president, he asserted, he himself would select for these positions only the "ablest and most devoted men" who would "spend their time wholeheartedly representing the interests of the United States."

Declaring ambassadors should be above partisan politics, he continued:

"And they should not seek to advise us about our defense program, a subject about which their knowledge can only be slight, particularly after they have only been on the American shores for a few hours."

50,000 At Jackson Listen To Willkie

JACKSON — (INS) — Rain-soaked political bunners, flags and debris usually left by crowds remanded residents of Jackson today that the community had played host to Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee.

In a rural setting outlined by autumn foliage, Willkie addressed a crowd estimated at 50,000, appealing to "each free American to do his part to keep our country free and strong."

The weather remained perfect until the program was completed. Within a half hour after the crowd began to disperse rain fell.

Republicans who arranged Willkie's last campaign appearance in the Buckeye state were pleased with the turnout for the Jackson meeting.

In addition to the estimated [illegible] crowded near the speaker's stand on a farm south [illegible] of Jackson, thousands of [illegible] automobiles [illegible] owned by [illegible] belonging to Willkie's [illegible] troupe to them over [illegible] roads.

"My voice may sound quite hoarse to you, and as I speak it may crack at times, but I want to recall to your mind that the Liberty bell also cracked."

Bricker Denies Liquor Sandbag

[illegible] (Governor [illegible] denied charges that [illegible] sandbag liquor permit holders in the Cleveland area for campaign contributions.

The charges, the governor said, were made to him by Michael V. Feighan, leader of the Democratic majority in the ohio house of representatives. Feighan told the governor the solicitations were being made by men who allegedly bore letters signed by Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor.

Replying to Feighan Bricker said he would be "glad to lend any assistance in the prosecution of any imposters."

Crowd Will Be Seein' Things And Winnin' Prizes at Parade

Followers of the comic strips and movie cartoons will think they are "seein' things" tomorrow night as they watch the American Legion's Halloween parade, for there will be Orphan Annie, Popeye, Dagwood, Mickey Mouse and many other characters from their favorite cartoons.

The parade will be "somthin'" if the weatherman shows any consideration for the Legion's plans, for the downtown district will be lighted with 300 red flares and miles of colored serpentine. Twelve thousand rolls of serpentine will be distributed to the spectators along the line of march.

Legionnaires hope to make this year's parade one of the best Mansfield has ever seen on Halloween and have set up $170 in cash prizes for 11 different classifications.

The largest prizes will be given in the floats classification. No advertising floats or trucks will be permitted. Organizations and concerns entering floats, however, may have their names in small letters on the side for identification purposes. Three cash prizes are being offered in this contest—$35 for first prize; $20 for second, and $10 for third prize.

There will be two contests in the cartoon character classification, with $10 and $5 for first and second prizes for both adults and children.

There are also $10 and $5 prizes in two contests—one for men and one for women—for the handsomest costumes. In four contests for the most comic costumes, first and second prizes of $5 and $3 for men, women, boys and girls.

Two special contests for children include $5 for the best dressed dog led by a child, and $5 for the best decorated bicycle.

The parade forms at Park avenue west and Sturges at 7 p. m. with the various classifications numbered, and with floats, bands and drum corps dividing up the groups. The column moves at promptly 7:30 p. m.

Walter L. Beckley, general chairman, stressed the fact that no political advertising will be permitted in the parade.

The column will disband at the judges' stand on Main street, at the west side of Central park.

Crawford County Couples Mark 50th Anniversaries

BUCYRUS — Two Crawford county couples are observing their 50th wedding anniversaries this week. Although both anniversaries fell on Tuesday, Oct. 29, celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Daum of south of Leesville, took place Sunday.

The other couple is Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Flocken, 329 South Poplar street, whose wedding took place in the same house in which they still live. They have one daughter, Miss Kathryn Flocken, county supervisor of the Ohio State department of Public Assistance, who lives with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Baum, who observed their anniversary with a family dinner Sunday, have made their home for the past 35 years in their present residence.

They have four children, J. R. Daum of Leesville; Forest Daum of Akron, Mrs. Lois Bauer of near Crestline and Marion Daum of north of Leesville.

FIERCE GREEK DEFENSE BALKS FASCIST DRIVE

into Greece was that Rome and Berlin had counted on Greek acceptance of Italy's demands for a break with Britain and for Italian basis in Greece.

When Greece chose to fight, it meant that Italy with whatever support Germany would give, faced a campaign in extremely rough and difficult terrain and against the reinforced British navy in the eastern Mediterranean.

While reports circulated in Rome that Premier Benito Mussolini might soon fly to the Greek war front, Jugoslav newspapers published frontier reports saying that a strong Greek force below the Albanian border had blocked the main Italian advance and that both sides were rushing reinforcements into the battle.

Artillery fire was heard all night and Lerina was reported under bombardment by Italian guns.

All of these reports, however, were extremely meager.

The first move of the British navy in defense of Greece, it was disclosed officially in London, was to lay mines protecting the Gulfs of Patras and Corinth and Gulf of Aegina.

This drew a barrier around the Corinth land bridge between northern Greece and the Peloponnese and guarded against any attempt by the Italians to break Greece in two by a surprise attack on the Corinth zone.

Italian troops were reported to have occupied the Greek town of Janari after a stiff two-hour battle near the Albanian frontier, where both sides suffered casualties.

Fascist airplanes again bombed the Athens airport and the Greek port of Volos.

Reports by way of Belgrade continued to indicate that an Albanian revolt might be hindering the Fascist advance

At Rome, however, it was stated that "our troops have continued to advance in Greek territory, overcoming the resistance of enemy rear guards." No definite figures were given as to the extent of advance but dispatches from Albania said that Albanian troops were fighting with the Italians.

Dispatches from half a dozen European points indicated that the Italian thrust into Greece was but one phase of a general winter offensive being inaugurated by the Axis powers without interrupting the German-Italian bombing raids on the British Isles.

London heard that 75,000 German troops were moving down the Danube river on barges, possibly to aid in the drive against Greece by attacking from the east (through Jugoslavia or Bulgaria) if the Fascist offensive stalls.

Describing German attacks on the British Isles the high command said that military objectives had been attacked in south England, including Portsmouth harbor and an ammunition dump at Great Yarmouth

The high command said that Italian planes participated in yesterday's daylight raids and it claimed that last night a number of air fields in eastern counties were attacked.

Balkan sources said that Germany has massed 16 divisions or perhaps 240,000 men in Slovakia and that the reinforcements en route down the Danube came from that zone. Previously, British military sources said that Germany had as many as 70 divisions (from 800,000 to 1,000,000 men) available for action in the southeast of Europe if necessary.

The newspaper Curentul at Bucharest reported that the German plan was to drive against Turkey in order to seize the Suez canal and the Near East oil fields.

Didn't Have Faith In Medicines Until He Tried Williams Formula —Now Urges Friends To Get This Medicine!

It is often true that sufferers become so confused they just can't decide whether to try this or that medicine. So, when we tell you that you may take Williams Formula with confidence, we back up our claims with statements of actual experiences of your neighbors who have put this splendid medicine to the test.

Mr. Harry E. Hale, 129 W. Center Ave., East Liverpool, Ohio, a valued employe of the Hall Chemical Co., says: "I read about Williams Formula and what it was doing for so many for several weeks before I decided to try it. To be frank I was skeptical of advertised medicines but since nothing else seemed to help me, I decided to make the test for myself. It's putting it mildly to say I think Williams Formula the best medicine made. It helped relieve the sour, acid food-rising after meals, coated tongue, dizzy headaches and restless, sleepless nights that were sapping my energy and strength. Now, I can go to bed fully expecting a good night's rest and get up feeling rested. I eat better, too, and my friends are surprised at how much better I look."

And so, friends why don't you try Williams Formula. The cost is so little, the results may prove a thousands times over your good judgment in making the test for yourself, just as Mr. Hale did. Sold and recommended by Hursh's Drug Store, 4th and Diamond.

Secretary Stimson Draws First Number as President Looks on

Kennedy Calls For Third Term

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, today had endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term.

In his radio speech last night, Kennedy described world conditions as "gloomy" but said the United States could stay out of the war "if we rearm fast enough."

It is to Britain's advantage that we stay out of the war and continue sending her supplies, he said, but he predicted that however the war ends, it will "gravely affect the destinies of every man, woman and child" in America; that "the impact of this conflict will be felt even by our children's children."

Bittinger Sees Easy Dem Triumph

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ignoring claims of Republican gains, J. Freer Bittinger, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee today predicted that President Roosevelt and former Gov. Martin L. Davey would be elected by margins of at least 320,000 next Tuesday.

Bittinger asserted he based his forecast on the outcome of the presidential and gubernatorial contests on information gathered in various counties by special representatives.

"The private information I have received, plus the reports that have come to me from our leaders in every county, leads me to arrive at the figure I have just announced," Bittinger said. "The trend is strongly and definitely towards the entire Democratic ticket."

Republicans leaders, too, have claimed gains, and some have even predicted that the Ohio vote would be a "landslide" for Wendell L. Willkie, GOP presidential nominee, and Governor Bricker, who is seeking his second term.

year-old daughter, Carol Ann. He said "there isn't any use in being upset about being the first drawn and if I'm called, I'll be right there with the rest of them. If I could be that lucky on bank night it would be all right."

When asked what it was like being one of the first drawn he said "he had no particular feeling except that I was kind of surprised."

Cartnal says he hasn't had any military training and so far hasn't thought much about the conscription.

Troupe was awakened from a sound sleep to learn he held the first number drawn. He is married and has two children, John Kennedy, 6 and Robert Ray, 20-months-old. Troupe was in a CCC camp in California for six months in 1933 and says he is in favor of conscription.

However he doesn't think there is much chance that he will be selected. Besides having a family, he thinks he would fail to pass the army physical examination.

When Ruble was told at work yesterday that 158 was the first number drawn he said:

"I might as well be the first to go as the last, but it does give a fellow a kind of peculiar feeling being one of the first ones drawn." He has three children, Jacqueline Lou, 4, Janice Ann, 2 and Ronald Merlin, 4-months.

Ruble says he doesn't like the idea of conscription but it seems there isn't anything that you can do about it now.

The three Richland county men were among more than 6,000 others, whose serial number was also 158, according to the Associated Press.

One of the men bearing 158 already had beaten Uncle Sam to the draw, so to speak. He was a resident of Warren, and enlisted a few days ago.

Some of the others holding the first number drawn were:

Two Cleveland newspaper reporters and an Associated Press operator in Los Angeles.

A Duquesne university speech professor who was rendered temporarily speechless by the news.

A man in Tacoma, Wash., whose brother held the second number drawn, 192.

A Washington plumber's helper whose parents happened to be in the auditorium for the drawing.

Two Chinese in the No. 1 draft district of the country's two largest cities, New York and Chicago.

for border counties in southeastern Ohio.

The quotas were established and dates set for induction within a few hours following the United States' first peace time compulsory military service lottery which ended in Washington at 5:48 a. m today after more than 17½ hours of drawing numbers from the World war fish bowl, numbering 17,000,000 young Americans for selective service in a new national army.

It was decided officially that 324 of Ohio's 330 draft boards will furnish three men each for the initial call. Six boards with the highest number of registrants in the state will furnish an extra man apiece to round out the quota. They are in the larger counties.

When first called, each draftee will undergo a physical examination by the local draft medical examiner and then at the induction center will take a second physical examination by several army specialists. If rejected, the draftee will be sent home and his board must furnish another conscript.

After passing through the induction stations, the approved conscripts will be sent to Fort Thomas which has been designated as the "reception center" for Ohio.

Uniforms and equipment will be issued at the reception centers and the new soldiers will be assigned to army units for training.

Selective service spokesmen in Columbus said today it was not true that all Ohio draftees would be sent to Camp Shelby, Miss., where the Ohio National Guard is now in a year's federal service.

Officers said that it was impossible at present to determine where Ohio conscripts will be assigned. However, all additions to the 37th division (Ohio National Guard) will be drawn from Ohio men. The 37th is now about 8,000 under full strength.

The Washington lottery drawing went on quietly after the first flurry of excitement. The huge auditorium, magnet for thousands at first, drew only scattered and changing hundreds as the drawing went on.

Midnight and the late supper crowds were dropping in, dinner clothes and evening dresses distinguishing them. But mostly the crowd was made up of young men and pretty girls—wives or sweethearts.

And as the nation's first age group of men turned out today a great many hundreds of thousands of them were heading directly toward a new kind of life than they ever had known before with guns and bugles and uniforms very much a part of it.

"This nation has clearly demonstrated its willingness," Dykstra said, "to meet any challenge of aggression by preparedness."

He spoke as the last capsule was drawn by Brig. Gen. Louis B. Hershey.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1940.

If there's anything you planned doing in October you'd better be getting at it.

Observer suggests: "Motor car accidents would be reduced 50 per cent if drivers were as courteous on the highways as they are at social events."

Those Who Neglect To Vote

NEXT Tuesday the American people will exercise the most vital of all rights—the right to vote in absolute secrecy and without fear of coercion.

Even in normal, uneventful times it is important that every accredited citizen vote. In these chaotic days of unsolved internal problems and external threats, it is infinitely more important.

In many European countries the vote has either been taken from the people or has been turned into a mockery. And in all the countries where that has happened the people have become the slaves of a small and ruthless ruling class operating under direction of a dictator.

The free ballot, as it is exercised in the United States, is any people's first and last line of defense against tyranny and oppression.

It is a tragic fact, however, that several million people in this country—with at least a few in each community—refuse, neglect or forget to vote. Whatever other fine qualities these non-voters may have, they lack one important requisite of good citizenship—a recognition of their obligation to participate in an essential function of democracy.

Government by an active, aggressive minority constitutes one of the greatest dangers to successful operation of a representative democracy. The citizen who does not vote is thus contributing to undermining the foundation of the constitutional system of government.

Vote next Tuesday. Vote for the men whom you think best qualified to have charge of government—national, state and local. That is your privilege, your duty and your responsibility.

Unity and Tolerance Needed

ABRAHAM LINCOLN remains the best interpreter of democracy for Americans. The "fourscore and seven years ago" of which he spoke in his Gettysburg address have nearly doubled, and the nation "conceived in liberty" and dedicated to equality still carries on.

But once more we are in troublous times. The whole world now seems to be engaged in a great war, testing whether any nation committed to freedom can endure. Out of all the nations of the earth there are only two strong democracies left, and one of them is fighting desperately not only for its free way of life, but for life itself. Even here in free America we are no longer so sure of ourselves.

For here there is division, to a degree that we have not seen before in many years. Millions of immigrant citizens, or descendants of immigrants, seem to question the value of democracy. Many are trying to undermine it in favor of alien principles. There is doubt and indecision, too, among older Americans, aggravated by the conflicts of a bitter election campaign.

Many will have to learn again that there can be no freedom without unity and no unity without tolerance. Perhaps the greatest peril to America today is no foreign power or system, but domestic party passions such as have arisen in recent weeks. We need "a new birth of freedom" and also a new birth of tolerance, in order that "government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Know Little About Candidates

ONE of the dinner groups discussing politics brought up the subject of taxes, with considerable disapproval of tax laws now in operation.

A fellow diner said thoughtfully, "Of course, congress writes the tax laws. Do you know how any of the congressional candidates for whom you expect to vote stand on taxation?"

The answer was no, and even the questioner admitted ignorance on the subject. A third at the table said, "I don't even know how they stand on other questions really. I don't see how we can know much about them."

From that point on the talk dealt with voters' ignorance of the character and ideas of many candidates for state legislatures as well as congress. It recognized the fact that it was hard really to know so many candidates for so many offices, but concluded that right there is a weak spot in the practice of democracy and likewise a good place to begin improving it.

The 5 and 8 Bob Up Again

SUCH a coincidence as that which brought up the 5 and 8 as the last two figures of the first number drawn in both the 1917 and the 1940 drafts might easily give the "58" combination a superstitious slant to persons inclined that way.

It was purely by chance, of course, that "258" was the first number pulled from the bowl in 1917 and "158" the starting number in yesterday's lottery.

But, with thousands of capsules in the bowl, it does seem odd that the "58" part of it should stick through so persistently.

Fewer Jitterbug Dancers

THE JITTERBUG DANCE—if it is a dance—is said to passing out. Anyway, the experience of a Seattle man who was fitterbugging with his wife the other day may be regarded as symbolic. He slipped on a rug and unintentionally dived out of the window. Or maybe it was intentionally, if a jitterbug ever does anything with conscious intent.

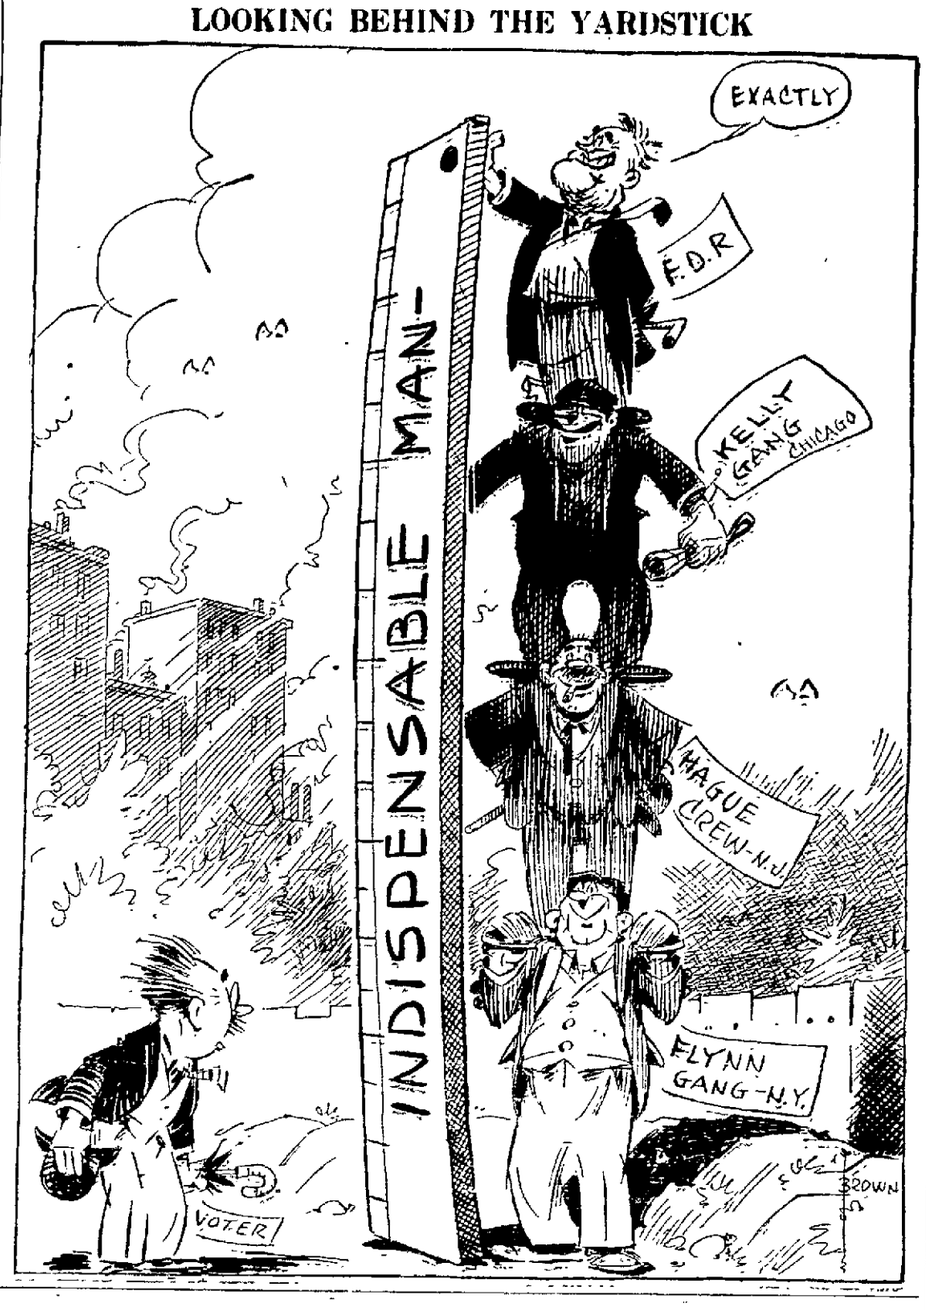
And if this strange aberration or nervous habit disappears, what will take its place? Pessimists are forecasting something still crazier and more jangling to the nervous system. But you never can tell. These fads seem like the wind that bloweth where it listeth, without any perceptible reason.

While it may be said about other merchandise, it is noted that hosiery manufacturers carefully avoid mentioning stockings that "give you a run for your money."

Only two cowbell factories still operate in the United States—and the sleighbell industry has also dwindled materially.

Oil was once recommended to quiet troubled waters but now it's troubling European waters.

LOOKING BEHIND THE YARDSTICK



Betting Reflects Willkie Trend

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Cold study of all the forecasts by political writers traveling around the country, and of the polls being taken by various organizations, results in some surprise that the betting odds are not heavier on Roosevelt to win.

The point is that so many states are reported as very close, either by polls or by the dispatches of the political writers, that to win, Wendell Willkie must carry virtually EVERY ONE of these states.

BETTING, if one leaves out the wagers laid as a result of heated arguments; or of partisans betting their hearts instead of their heads, should be based on the law of probabilities. In the flipping of a coin to settle who pays for a lunch, the chances are known to be precisely even that it will come heads. There are only two ways for the coin to fall.

Similarly, with dice, each cube may fall in any one of six different ways. Hence the odds should be five to one that it will NOT fall in any particular way. Any different ratio of odds is because the "house" gets a percentage.

So, if we assume that six or seven states are so close that they may go either way, the odds ought to be very heavy that all of them will not go the same way—if one is considering pure mathematics.

When one considers that Willkie MUST have EVERY ONE of the following states—New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan—and that all of them are reckoned almost too close for forecast by most of the polls and forecasts, it would seem that the odds ought to be tremendous against Willkie.

But they are not. What's the answer?

Why is it that men who are betting, not their sentiments, or to bluff some one in an argument, but to make money, take the Roosevelt money every time the odds go above say 7 to 5? Especially as it is generally conceded Roosevelt will win if he carries just ONE of the states on the foregoing list?

THE only answer that seems plausible is that the men doing this betting are not betting on mathematical probabilities, but on what they believe to be a trend. If they are right about the trend, they will win their bets. If they are wrong about the trend, they will lose.

In short, they do not believe that it is a question of how dice will fall, but of whether the same sort of sentiment will permeate the entire country.

The election results may make this sort of betting look very foolish. It is entirely possible that Roosevelt will be elected by a landslide. If the "trend" on which the Willkie men are betting does not appear, if indeed there is a trend to Roosevelt, his majority in the electoral college may be very high indeed.

But apparently the gambling gentlemen are betting exclusively on what they think the trend is, not on the various states as though they were matching coins.

When William Jennings Bryan was nominated for president in 1896, David B. Hill, New York party leader, was asked whether he would support the candidate. His answer has become historic. He said:

"I am a Democrat still. Very still."

James A. Farley might have said the same thing instead of issuing his simple statement that all good Democrats should vote the straight ticket. He stresses the fact that he can take no other course because from his earliest manhood he has never done anything else and—by inference—loyalty to party precludes his changing now.

He never mentions the name of Roosevelt and thereby his silence is more eloquent than his words. Next to his church, his great devotion has been to the party of Jefferson which he did so much to restore to power.

And, like Jefferson, he cannot accept the idea of a third term for any man. So, unable to say anything, he says nothing. — Detroit Free Press.

Health and Diet

Safeguard Health Of Draft Army.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERY physician is being made aware day by day of the various operations of government that are being put in action to take care of our new large army. These are very complicated and have many ramifications.

The average citizen in troubled and bewildering times like these wonders whether all the things he naturally worries about are being attended to. I cannot assure him about the guns, and airplanes, and coast defenses, but I have some information about the medical preparations and I find myself in a state of admiration at their completeness and efficiency.

It would be impossible in one article to list all these safeguards. I can only suggest a few and allow the reader's imagination to fill in the gaps.

For instance, I find in various parts of the country announcements of courses for civilian physicians in "Medical Preparedness in the Present National Emergency." This includes courses in the "Selective Service Act Machinery and Operation," and in "Non-combatant Military Hospitals and Medical Installations—Civilian Institution Sponsored Hospitals of the Army."

Soldiers Well Fed.

Among many items that come to my desk I select one at random in order to illustrate the far-sightedness and broad-sightedness of the preparations. During the last war the question of army food was often under discussion. And in spite of some natural pleasantries in which that strange and beloved animal, the American soldier, naturally indulges, I will say that I do not believe there was any deep voiced criticism of the cuisine.

Army cooks were not fancy, but they were good plain cooks and the boys were well fed.

The question of appointing a nutrition officer frequently came up. Today the science of nutrition has progressed so much and the world supply of food is in such an unpredictable state that a division of nutrition will probably be formed under army jurisdiction.

The Surgeon General's division is equally interested with the Quartermaster General's division in the soldier's food and it is to be hoped that the soldier of 1941 will have more scientific supervision of his diet even than he had been accustomed to at home.

In the examination of candidates I hope that routine X-ray chest plates will be instituted. The astonishing experience at the Medicine and Public Health Building at the New York World's Fair, where visitors were lined up and given a chest X-ray for $1.00, showed that of 11,821 supposed healthy people, 3.3% had active tuberculosis. The National Tuberculosis Association has been saying 1% of the population has active tuberculosis. Perhaps with the record of one million selective draft men we will come close to an accurate picture of our tuberculosis situation.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Loophole In Bolivian Agreement Guards Britain's Tin Interests

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Experts who have been following the tin problem, hoping for U. S. independence in this vital commodity, groaned when Jesse Jones made public the terms of the new agreement to obtain tin ore from Bolivia. Instead of making a clean-cut agreement to obtain ore, Jones permitted a clause to be introduced which would surrender the ore to Britain, and leave the United States almost as dependent on British smelting as before.

After weeks of discussion, the Metals Reserve company (subsidiary of RFC) agreed with four Bolivian producers and the Bolivian government to obtain tin ore sufficient to smelt 18,000 tons of fine tin a year. This is only about one-third of U. S. requirements, but if was a good beginning, and as much as U. S. smelteries, still to be built, could handle.

But when the agreement was announced, a loophole was disclosed. By it Jesse Jones agreed to let the British take about one-third of the tin away from us. They are promised "as much as 6,000 tons" and an unnamed quantity besides.

Inside story of this proviso shows the long arm of diplomacy. By clipper plane from Britain came Ernest V. Pierce of the giant Williams, Harvey smeltery in Liverpool. This is a part of the British-Patino tin monopoly and long has been the chief source of U. S. tin. Pierce went to the British embassy, talked with Lord Lothian, and Lothian promptly went to the state department.

There he pointed out that the British must continue to have their supply of dollars to pay for munitions purchased here on "cash and carry" terms. Sales of tin to U. S. are a source of such dollar exchange, second only to sales of Scotch whisky.

The British ambassador was persuasive, and officials agreed that as long as Britain must pay cash, she must be allowed to make money by sales to the United States. This, however, cuts the ground from under far-sighted plans to establish tin smelters in the United States.

The government is negotiating with various metal companies for construction of a smelting plant, but all certainty of supply of ore vanishes if the British, when they want it, can divert our ore from Bolivia, smelt it in Liverpool and then sell it back to us.

It has been in order to save the dangerous trans-Atlantic ocean haul that the United States needed to bring her own tin ore direct from Bolivia.

Note—Two tin experts formerly close to the British tin monopoly are advisers on the National Defense commission.

On the Battlefront.

REPS: GOP generalissimos credit much of the Willkie ground-swell of the last several weeks to a campaign which has been little publicized. They call it "extra-organization"; quiet activity carried on by thousands of volunteers, many of them women.

It consists of house-to-house canvassing, telephone calls, chain letters and local radio broadcasts. For example: In Ohio four entirely separate radio campaigns, each financed locally, are under way for Willkie. In California 100 stations have been running nine Willkie announcements daily and this week the number of stations has been doubled.

In Atlantic City, at a meeting of manufacturers, Franz Stone of Ohio persuaded them to telephone their offices to purchase time on local stations for broadcasting Willkie transcriptions. The group bought more than $250,000 in radio time.

In South Bend, Ind., women who never before have engaged in political activity are daily making door-to-door canvasses. In Missouri, GOP women are devoting several hours a day to telephoning voters.

Note—GOP leaders report that in the past two weeks they have received more contributions than the total of all campaign funds up to then.

DEMS: Attorney General Ellis Arnall of Georgia is throwing hotshot at Willkie in the Southern campaign, with the charge that several years ago the GOP nominee publicly derided the U. S. government. According to Arnall, Willkie aired these views at a hearing on October 16, 1937, before the Georgia Public Service commission, on an application by the Tennessee Electric Power company, to float a stock issue.

Arnall, then assistant attorney general, was interrogating Willkie when Willkie thundered he would not permit any of his men to work for the government, because "I don't think that little of them. I think to damn much of them." Now, however, Arnall is telling his audiences, Willkie not only wants to work for the government but to be "head man."

Come 'n' See It.

IF CERTAIN leading advertising agencies can sell the idea to army brasshats, the boys in camp this winter will see star radio shows — with glamorous movie queens, famous comics, popular crooners and top bands—put on the air.

However, there is considerable difference of opinion among army chiefs on this novel plan. They are agreed that the shows would be a big hit and a morale builder, but some of them question the commercial features of the program.

If one class of sponsors, such as cigarets or automobiles are allowed to stage broadcasts in army camps, they contend that others, such as patent medicines, might demand similar privileges and couldn't fairly be refused. They also argue that no commercial performances should be permitted in government posts.

Proponents of the plan retort that this would no more imply government endorsement of the product than if soldiers in uniform attended the same shows in radio stations. Also, that it didn't matter who the sponsor was so long as the show was clean and star entertainment.

Note—Civilian press aides in the war department are strong for the proposal, but their military associates are not.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Recently Sonny (C. V.) Whitney got back to NY from a 20,000 mile aerial tour of the southern Pacific . . . When he goes on trips, or stays in town for that matter, he notes each day's happenings in a personal diary . . . Here are a few leaves from his diary, written on this tour:

"About Canton Island . . . The first things you see as you glide down and tie up to the wharf are the British and American flags, side by side. Canton is the only island in the world under the joint sovereignty of Great Britain and the U. S. . . . Poor Mr. and Mrs. Flemming, the agents of His Majesty the King. When the war came, they were forgotten on this tiny isle. Their provision boat did not come as usual, and they are now supported by Pan American Airways . . .

"On Nurakiu Island . . . There are about 10 women for every man . . . 'I must tell you,' says a British government medico, 'they are the most beautiful women I have seen in all the South Seas. They are perfection—and unspoiled, for they are never visited by the outside world' . . . They told me about the Clipper coming over for the first time. All were in church . . . A woman came in, shrieking 'The Angel of Death is approaching!' Everyone dashed out of the church. They grabbed their babies and took to the bush where they stayed until it passed over . . ."

"NEW CAEDONIA . . . Used to belong to France—now under the De Gaulle government in London. An island being watched by Japan through a periscope and by Australia through a monocle. . . . Noumea (the capitol) itself still has the charm of a French provincial village. Champagne is 25 cents a quart . . ."

"Bali . . . My first impression of Bali was in the two individuals who were standing by the plane to help us alight. One was a Balanese soldier looking very efficient in his spotless uniform, the other a porter clad only in a sarong. The trance dance . . . a young girl of humble descent is selected for the principal role. The girl hangs her head over the fire in which the Medicine Men pour various herbs and potions until she finally becomes drugged by the fumes . . . They stand her in the middle of the hut and transform her from a drab figure into a beautiful Cinderella clad in a costume of gold. Her chorus of girls sits on one side of the arena, and on the other side are groups of at least 50 men each, naked to the waist, faces painted, long talon-like claws attached to their fingers. The whole scene is lit by torches and the full moon filtering down through palm trees . . . Then follows the Balinese version of the Creation . . . While the story unfolds, in song and acting, the girl dancers in a trance as the spirits are supposed to move her . . . This performance would make a sensation on any stage in America.

"WE SPEND a week in Java . . . The Sultan is one of the last remaining Eastern Potentiates . . . He has an automatic rule over 40,000,000 people . . . There are 20,000 within the walls of his palace . . . He is only 26 and speaks perfect English . . . As we toured the palace with him I saw a table tennis set stowed away in a corner. When I mentioned this his face lit up and he said, 'Yes, that's the only exercise I get' . . . I believe he has about 15 wives, and there are a horde of royal princesses . . ."

A Farmer's Diary

Canadian Yews

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

GROWING out of a perpendicular ledge of sandstone rock, eight feet or so above the level of the creek, I saw a shrub of evergreen variety. For some time I just stood there and admired the dark green foliage made even richer by contrast with the brilliant afterglow of sunset that lit the space above.

It stood there with long extended branches, both north and south along the sheer, impending stone. The tough scaly fringes looked like terminal plumes of green. They rested confidently, in bold relief, against the stony background, in seeming defiance of laws of gravity.

Looking closer, I noticed a short fibrous trunk that wound its way into the bosom of its host there to find anchorage, water and mineral sustenance. With its expanding strength, it had split more and more widely the tiny seam in which it had started, until the rift is larger than a human hand. The hardy branches get only the morning sunlight. The sun cannot shine down into the rugged glen in the afternoon.

I rolled a fragment of stone, recently broken from the ledge, to a place where I could reach a trailing spray. Its resistance to my attempt to sever it was admirable. I caught the challenge that it flung and stepped down from the surface of the stone with the trophy in my hand. I sat upon a fallen trunk and draped the fresh green sprig across my knee.

Sap of a rare wild fragrance oozed from the broken end and scented the atmosphere. The compound spikes, like tiny leaves, glistened in the evening light. Misty moisture from the nearby waterfall spread a covering on its surface so delicate that I could only sense its presence. I counted five scarlet berries that clung so closely to the stem that it was not visible. The globular sides were smooth and fine of texture, the berries as large as my little finger's end. I plucked the cool, crisp fleshy fruit and held it to the light. The rare, translucent pinkish color was beautiful to see. The blossom end was deeply indented, and the dark upper covering of the seed gleamed from this sunken fastness. The berry looked like a beautiful red bead. Its winsome color tempted me and I crushed the pulpy flesh and tasted it. The flavor was insipid and disappointing, with only a slight hint of the robust spicy exuberance of the sap.

I found the shrub was the Canadian yew, native to this section and parts farther north, and unrelated to the English yew that poets wrote about.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. A post road is socalled because in the early days the United States mail was carried over it.
2. A circular inch is the area of a circle one inch in diameter, as distinguished from a square inch.
3. It is 15½ miles long within the city limits of Greater New York.

THE WORLD IS LIKE THAT + +

CHAPTER XXV.

"You're behaving very foolishly, Jocelyn; I don't know that I've seen you act quite so silly," she said calmly. "You're a woman, now, and you have to act like a woman. To get yourself mixed up in a scandal wouldn't do you any good, and would undo everything you've done for Norma Fordyce. Now you stop it. Let her go off with her father under the charge of some married woman, and you wait here. You're no worse off than you were before this whole thing was talked of a few weeks ago. Bring Rosemary in, will you, dear? They both are awake, and I think I'll let them play in the kitchen. It's nice and warm in there. There are conventions, Jocelyn; there are things that you just can't do. So you should be glad someone reminded you of them in time!"

When Jocelyn picked up Norma at the theater an hour later the younger girl looked at her sharply. "You've been crying, Jotsy?" she said.

"Yes. I got upset about something. You've got good eyes!" Jocelyn said smilingly.

"Who was mean to you?"

"Nobody. It's only—now be a sport, Norma, and don't tell anyone I've told you this. But Sandy and your aunt Jane feel . . ."

Jocelyn went into the matter somewhat hesitatingly, wondering just how much to say and how much to conceal. The effect, surprisingly, was to make Norma laugh.

"Old snooty busybodies!" she said. "What business is it of theirs! Never mind, darling, we'll be off a week from tomorrow no matter what they say! Why don't you talk to Dad?"

"I thought I would. And promise me you'll not say anything until we see what he thinks."

"I'll do anything you say, dearest. But if they think for one minute that we aren't going to sail next Saturday, they can go sit on a tack!" Her confidence, baseless as Jocelyn knew it to be, had the effect of cheering them both, and when she had a chance to speak to Philip that evening, it was with considerably more hope in her manner.

He listened thoughtfully, not looking at her.

"My mother's just been saying something of the sort," Philip muttered when she paused. He kicked at a log in the fireplace, and looked up to smile at her dubiously. He was going out to dinner; he was in formal evening dress, looking his groomed and handsome best.

"Your mother! But she was the one who talked it all over with us. She's known about it from the beginning."

"I know. I suppose this is some of Sandy's work."

"And Mrs. Kimberley."

"That so? Did Jane put her hooks in? Well, they evidently worked to some purpose on my mother. She was all agog tonight. I musn't let Norma in for any more publicity or we'd have Janet all over us. All that!"

Jocelyn was unable to say anything; the bitterness of her disappointment seem to choke her.

"I'd been looking forward to it; it seemed as if we might have a few days' fun," Philip presently said. "But we can't take a chance on Norma's mother."

"No, of course not," Jocelyn agreed dully. "Norma'll be disappointed," she added, with a little effort.

"She'll not be any more disappointed than I am!" the man said, half aloud. "But it's had the effect—I mean all this women's nonsense—" he went on, "of making me see something that I mightn't have seen quite so quickly before. Of course you know what I mean?"

Jocelyn looked at him quickly in the soft half-light of the library. Philip took both her hands, and for her the world seemed to turn upside down.

"You know that I had to find out sooner or later what had given me back my daughter, and why this trip meant so much to me, don't you?" he questioned her again.

Speechless, swallowing with a dry throat, she looked steadily at him.

"Can't you say 'yes' to that, Jocelyn?" he asked.

"I don't know what you mean," she whispered after a long moment.

"Why, it meant that I've found you," he said simply. "Everything's been twisting about and changing, and I've not known what was the matter with me, and now I know. While my mother was talking to me today it came to me like a flash. So there's something for you to think of while I'm at my dinner, my dear!"

"Don't go!" she managed to say.

"I have to go." His tone was amused, kind, not at all flustered. "But I want you to know how I stand. I've fallen in love with you, as if I were a boy," he said. "I'm forty-two. I've a daughter of seventeen. She'd always be a problem to us both, even after she married. You know exactly what a madhouse this is. But the fact remains that I love you. Just how it will all work out, I haven't any idea; you'll have to be the one to fit the pieces together. But if we aren't to be allowed to go to Honolulu without a chaperon, perhaps if we got married, they'd worry less about us. Now I'm going, but you think it all over, and we'll talk some more tomorrow! Don't look so astonished." Philip finished, laughing. "The most natural thing in the world for anyone who is in your neighborhood at all is to fall in love with you. This may be the solution; anyway, I hope it is. Good night, my dear."

Philip was gone, and Jocelyn was standing perfectly still in the big shadowy room, breathless, ecstatic, wondering if she had imagined the whole scene. His cigarette was still smoking on the cinnabar tray; she could hear his brief word of thanks to one of the men, as he took his big coat and silk hat in the hall. No, it hadn't been a dream.

But he couldn't have said what she thought he had said! Philip Fordyce, the most important man her fortune had ever brought within her circle of friendships. Wanting to marry her! Her head whirled.

Why, that would mean—that would mean everything she had ever wanted in the world! That would mean security, a place of her own, a home, a chance to establish friendships and build what she wanted into her life. That would mean that these brilliant, enviable, maddeningly arrogant women would have to take her into their calculations, would have to consider her seriously, whether they liked it or not. It would mean that she had magnificent Phil behind her, sustaining her and loving her in everything she did.

Loving her! That was the miracle. She couldn't help loving him. Jocelyn had told herself days earlier that it was this man's fascination that kept her here at Hill Acres. It was impossible for her now to think of living anywhere but near him, if only to hear his voice occasionally, if only to catch a glimpse of him now and then. But for him to love her? Why should he?

Half the glamour of the proposed trip to Hawaii had been because Philip was to head the little party. The moments of her bitterest disappointment, as the plan had faded from probability, had been caused by the thought, not quite recognized at the time, but recognizable now, that she would be parted from his company for a long two weeks.

Now that consideration was banished. Those few incredible minutes in the library had killed it; in its place was a confusion of hope and fear that made her feel an actual physical exhaustion. Long after Norma was asleep she lay awake, thinking.

In the end she said to herself that Philip had perhaps spoken in an unthinking mood of gaiety and good nature, and that he might never make another allusion to the subject. She would never bring it up again, naturally, and therefore she must begin again to plan for whatever alterations in the plans for the trip were necessary. Someone must go with them, that was obvious. The question was, who could go suitably, adequately, without destroying all the pleasure of Philip, Norma and herself?

The next day Philip was gone off for his tennis game at the country club when she and Norma came downstairs at about ten o'clock. Some girls had come over to talk of a charity rummage sale with Norma, and Norma was delighted to take them upstairs again to her sitting room and dazzle them with the magnificence and variety of the things she was giving to the sale.

Meggy Brice and Peggy Wilson quite shamelessly appraised a dozen or more sweaters at a dollar apiece, and bought several with no further formality. Meggy bought two French hats, and Jocelyn was stung into sudden realization that she was paying a dollar and a half for a Bond Street topcoat, of tweed so soft it was furry, and so flexible that the whole thing might almost have been put through a hoop.

"We never price anything at more than a dollar and a half!" Peggy said, with a meritorious air.

The young ladies, after some beautifying processes, decided to go to the club for lunch. This afternoon Jocelyn and Norma had a special reason for wanting to watch the tennis, for at luncheon time the news spread through the big dining room that Phil Fordyce and Joe Carter had qualified for the finals in a 6-4, 7-9 match against Bill Trent and the senior Ned Randall that morning. The finals would begin at two.

It was exciting to find places in the bleachers, and watch the easy pendulum movement of the first rallies. Every boy and girl Norma knew was also watching; and Jocelyn watched Phil, and thought that he was the most wonderful man in the world.

The sun shone down on his brown hair and his burned brown skin; his sport shirt was open at the neck, and from the brief sleeves and beneath the flannels he wore, his rounded, firm arms and legs worked with the precision of pistons. Now and then, between games, he brushed back his hair with his forearm, wiped his forehead with the same movement, and looked over to laugh at Norma and Jocelyn.

When the game was over, Philip jumped the net like a boy, shook hands, laughing and gasping, with his triumphant opponents, and came over to where Norma and Jocelyn were sitting.

"Whew!" he said. "Those boys are too much for your poor old dad, Spotty!"

"The umpire gave them every decision," Norma said accusingly and everyone within hearing laughed.

CREDIT—WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

Bonded indebtedness of any county or political subdivision of the State of Ohio must be paid over the span of years for which any bonds are issued.

Richland County is now free of any bonded indebtedness—credit being given for the retirement of all bonds issued in past years, while no new bonds have been issued or authorized by the voters of this county.

During the years 1937-1940, inclusive, when the present board of county commissioners was in power a total of approximately $600,000.00 in bonds was retired. BUT COMPARE THIS RECORD WITH THE RECORD OF OTHER COUNTY COMMISSIONERS DURING THE PREVIOUS EIGHT YEARS.

Here are the figures taken from the County Auditor's annual financial statement on file in the courthouse: of the amount of bonds retired:

1929	$667,362.73	1933	$296,425.84
1930	$420,887.20	1934	$255,473.81
1931	$414,271.60	1935	$217,138.96
1932	$470,088.49	1936	$186,101.69
	$1,972,610.02		$955,140.30

IS THE PRESENT RECORD SOMETHING SO WONDERFUL TO BOAST ABOUT?

Do the present county commissioners also take credit for the reappraisal of real estate that resulted in an increase in taxes for many property owners in Richland County?

WHAT ABOUT THE $3,000,000.00 BONDED INDEBTEDNESS OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT THROUGH EXPENDITURES IN RICHLAND COUNTY? Do the present board of commissioners take credit for this?

Total Bonds Retired 1929-32 .....$1,972,610.00
Total Bonds Retired 1933-36 ..... 961,140.30
Total Bonds Retired 1937-40 ..... 600,000.00

Republican candidates for county commissioner are just as capable as their opponents in looking after the business of the county in the retirement of bonded indebtedness. They have no alternative but to pay off bonds when they come due. They have had that experience in holding the office of township trustee in the retirement of bonds. They claim no unusual credit for that.

Cyrus L. Shoup and Harry Orewiler are honest, capable and efficient men, and citizens of Richland County are assured of the highest type of officials by electing them on Nov. 5.

STORIES FROM IRVING PRESENTED AT SOROSIS

Mrs. Ambrose Middleton Reports Middlenorth District Meeting; Mrs. Angle, Mrs. Place Give Program.

MRS. WILLIAM R. KING, 395 Edgewood road, opened her home to 21 members and one guest, Mrs. A. P. Bourns, for the meeting of the Mansfield Sorosis yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, delegate to the Middlenorth District meeting which was held last week at Sandusky, gave her report.

Miss Bertha Ruess, who was awarded a silver medal at the convention honoring her for having the longest period of continuous service in the federation, displayed the medal which bears the legends "Honoring the Past," "For the Enlightenment of the Future."

Selections from the "Knickerbocker History of New York" were then read by Mrs. Middleton, and Mrs. John Angle and Mrs. O. G. Place gave "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" and "Rip Van Winkle" by Washington Irving.

Fall appointments were used on the table at which the refreshments were served. Mrs. Bess Albright poured. The next meeting will be held Nov. 12 at the Women's Club at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. A. E. Courtney as hostess. Mrs. F. M. Remy will review "Doctor Hudson's Secret Journal" and Miss Ruth Culbertson will give book news.

Alpha Pi Sigma Initiates Six at Founders' Dinner

FORMAL initiation services were held for six pledges of Alpha Pi Sigma sorority yesterday evening, following a formal Founders' day banquet at Wickliffe Manor. Miss Garnet Karl, Mrs. Clarence Skinner, Mrs. Harvey Hauserman, Miss Miriam Johnson, Mrs. Ruth Hildebrand and Miss Isabel Kass are the new initiates.

Dinner was served at two long tables, decorated with fall flowers and lighted gold and black tapers. Mrs. Donald Hattman was the toastmistress, and Mrs. Raymond Beal read a welcome poem to the initiates, which they answered by singing their initiation song. Arrangements for this dinner meeting were in charge of Mrs. Hattman, Mrs. C. R. Martin and Miss Grace Crotty.

Miss Isabel Gerstmeyer president, then gave a talk on Founders' Day, as did the supreme president, Mrs. Peg Whitehouse, and the supreme corresponding secretary, Mrs. Nell Busse, both of Rho chapter of Canton.

The initiation ceremonies were conducted by the officers, including Miss Gerstmeyer, Miss Esther Pfaff, past president; Mrs. Hattman vice president; Miss Marie Kalbfleisch, master of work; Mrs. Beal, prelate, and Mrs. Ralph Andregg, sergeant-at-arms.

During a short business session, a report of the sorority's recent rummage sale was given. At the next meeting, Nov. 6, nomination of officers will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mrs. Andregg and Mrs. Beal will be the hostesses at that time.

Hedges Mothers Club Plans Penny Supper

There were 60 members of the Hedges Mothers club present for a meeting in the school auditorium yesterday afternoon. At this time Mrs. Paul Stahl, general chairman for a penny supper to be held at the school, Nov. 29, announced her committee chairmen. This supper, which is being sponsored by the club, will be open to the public.

On yesterday afternoon's program, Mary Lou Lawrence played a piano solo, and Shirley Daum presented a reading. Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Gettz and her committee, composed of Mrs. Arnold Baker, Mrs. Joseph Dune, Mrs. Mayme Ulm and Mrs. George Botter. The next club meeting at the school will be on Nov. 26.

Delano Auxiliary Has Party for Members

A masquerade party for members and former members of Delano auxiliary was held last night at the lodge hall. Costume prizes were given to Mrs. Bessie Ricks and Mrs. Catherine Reed. Contests were won by Miss Doris Reed, Mrs. Mary Swetlick, Mrs. Janet Hilson, Mds. Ruth Mauk, Mrs. Rose Bishop, Mrs. Edith Ogden and Mrs. Mary Shambaugh.

The hall was appropriately decorated with Halloween appointments. Mrs. Goldie Dodge and her committee were in charge of the refreshments, and Mrs. Alva Harnly and her committee arranged the program. The next meeting will be followed by a poke lunch served Nov. 12.

CHILDREN PARTY.

Some 25 members of the Mothers' Jewels of the First Methodist church and their mothers gathered at the church yesterday afternoon for a Halloween party. Mrs. Charles Divelbiss read a story, and games were played after which refreshments were served. Prizes were won by Billy Wadsworth and Marilyn Farmer. Mrs. Michael Bayer and Mrs. Eugene Linham were in charge of arrangements. Hosts were Peggy Bayer, Ted Linham and Linda Hout. The next meeting will be a Valentine party in February. The organization is a missionary society for children up to the age of six years.

CELEBRATES.

Mary Kay Beyo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beyo, of Woerth avenue, was hostess last night for a party on the occasion of her sixth birthday. Halloween appointments were used, and prizes were won by Rosemary Guenther, Norma Lee Rader, Janice Miller and Jerry Brunick. Refreshments were served at a long table.

Mansfield Women at Meeting In Plymouth

Mrs. Howard C. Sword, Mrs. William Roth, Mrs. Cecil Schill, Mrs. C. E. Mitchell, Mrs. Paul Mitchell and Mrs. Clark W. Brook, members of the Dolly Madison club, attended a meeting yesterday of the Martha Jefferson club of Plymouth and Shiloh at the home of Mrs. Henry Fackler, Plymouth.

The session was presided over by Mrs. Lucy Downend. A quizz bee was held, and Mrs. Brook, Richland county chairwoman, talked briefly about the coming election. The other Mansfield women also spoke. Tea was served.

ENTERTAIN CLUB.

Mrs. Margaret Wolf was hostess for a meeting of the Amicus club last evening at her home, 5 Dunbilt court. Guests in attendance were Mrs. Harold Nickols, Mrs. L. C. Wolf and her daughter, Mary Ellen. Hearts were the diversion, with prizes going to Mrs. Esther Spayde and Mrs. Ada Lurz. The guest prize was won by Mrs. Nickols. Halloween appointments were used when luncheon was served. Mrs. Lurz will entertain at her home on Harker street, on Nov. 12.

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS.

Frederick James Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, 110 Glessner avenue, entertained his friends at a "chamber of horrors" Halloween party last night. The 12 children played games and contests, and refreshments were served.

PLAN PARTY.

Members of the Jolly Lot club will have a poke lunch and party at the home of Mrs. Byron Cross, Mumba avenue, East Mansfield, Friday evening, it was announced today.

SINGERS MEET.

Members of the Newman Methodists met last night at the school with Raymond Dent directing. Mrs. Arthur Rice conducted a brief business meeting and plans were made to meet next Monday at the school instead of Tuesday on account of election.

Children Pose at Party

St. Peter's Alumni Club Holds Dance

Members of the St. Peter's Alumni association gathered Monday evening at the Coolridge Country club for their annual Halloween masquerade ball. Some of the dancers and committee members are shown in the above informal shot. Seated on the floor from left to right are Helen Kurrich, Mildred Dalton, Loretta Anne Fink and Helen Burgess. Standing beside the corn shock are Michael Hornung, left, Elaine Downs and Robert Fisher.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

IF YOU'RE a white collar girl, you're undoubtedly faced with the problem of how to look chic on a dinner date when you're wearing the same dress you've been working in all day long. . . . Well, you can relax now, because your worries are over. . . . One of the local stores is featuring the "secretary" dress which will certainly solve all your problems. . . . Made of soft black silk crepe, this dress is tailored with a rolled crepe trim extending from the shoulders and ending in a twisted knot in the middle of the bodice. . . . The slick feature of it all is that there is a zipper under the rolled trim at the shoulders and around the armhole so that for the office you can zip in tailored, elbow-length sleeves, and when it's time to close up your desk for that date in the evening, you can zip in bracelet-length sleeves, trimmed with a glittering silver sequin design!

Christmas comes but once a year—but sometimes that year seems awfully short, doesn't it? Well, it's a little less than two months away now, and already the downtown stores are literally filled with gift suggestions, so from here it looks pretty much as though it would be smart to shop early this year. . . . One of the country's leading cosmeticians has just introduced some portrait perfumes that are adorable. . . . All floral scents, their miniature bottles are packaged in boxes trimmed with bright-colored cellophane with transparent tops and lined with satin or velveteen. Some of the tiny bottles are trimmed with colored glass flowers representative of their scents—such as a red carnation and pale purple violets. Gardenia, which the manufacturer calls bride's perfume, has a tiny bride inside the bottle. . . . Then there's the gift horse, also introduced by this manufacturer to carry her famous "Blue Grass" cologne. . . . Standing about six inches high, this modernistic wooden horse has been painted blue, and the bottle of cologne is tied on his back with pink and blue ribbon.... Pink and blue ostrich feather and little flowers decorate his mane.... The large size bottle of this cologne has been painted with a spray of blue grass, and the smaller size is gift wrapped in pink and blue paper, also tied with flowers and a sprig of blue grass.

For a friend who smokes, you'll find those sets combining cigaret case and compact to be ideal. Some are of leather and others of wood, but all have gold frames—some being trimmed with heads of horses, others dogs. . . . One style, however, which comes only in leather, is decorated with the Greek letters of a number of leading fraternities throughout the country.

* * *

THEN in the line of compacts, there are all kinds of pretty ones on display downtown now. . . . Some square ones of gold and ivory feature tops that look like old-fashioned samplers, while other styles have inlaid wooden designs. . . . Some vanities of dull gold are brightened with shiny gold pine cone designs, while little square snuff box compacts have been trimmed with raised dog heads in various colors. . . . The Harlequin compacts are daringly different—in the shape of Harlequin eye masks, they come in either black or gold. . . . For strictly formal wear, there is a gold frame compact with a glittering solid rhinestone top, and then there are some in black enamel or gold which have jeweled corners. . . . There's another clever little compact too, which is in the shape of a miniature family album with a mother-of-pearl top.

* * *

Because of the war, imports of china and crystal from abroad have been cut off almost entirely, and as a result many products from Mexico are on display in the local shops now. . . . In the way of crystal, there is much hand-blown glass that is quite beautiful. The pieces have a swirled effect and some in deep blue and light blue-green tones. . . . There are a variety of sizes in drinking glasses, water pitchers, flower bowls and oddly shaped dishes. . . . Then in the pottery line, there are chop plates, ash trays and other receptacles which are decorated with bright colored Mexican designs.

* * *

NO UMBRELLA MAN ever saw fancy umbrellas like the ones that a local store is showing now. . . . Made of oil silk, one style is decorated with painted flowers—either bachelor buttons or dogwood. . . . The umbrellas come in white, green or blue with designs of contrasting tones. . . . Then another style of umbrella is made from "cordura," a new rayon yarn material which is guaranteed not to stick together when wet. . . . These styles come in plain tones with colored borders, as well as in prints.

HERE'S a hint beginning Friday through the 16th of November, you'll be able to buy perfume, made by one of your favorite manufacturers at a specially reduced price. . . . This perfume is the kind that is packaged in little crown bottles, and for the next two weeks they'll sell at almost half price. . . . The fragrances are "Duchess of York," "Ave Maria," "Katherine the Great" and "Georgian Carnation."

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

ENJOY SOCIAL.

More than 100 children of the St. Luke's Lutheran Sunday school met at the church last night for a Halloween party. Games were played during the evening, and refreshments were served. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. John Vrbanac, David DeWitt and Walter Wentz.

Committee Heads Named at Session of Chi Sigma Unit

Miss Naomi Stutz, president, appointed Mrs. Wayne Sutton chairman of the welfare committee of Chi Sigma sorority last evening during a meeting of that organization at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. She announced that Mrs. Sutton will be assisted in this work by Miss Wilma Snider, Mds. Arthur Knight, and Mrs. Wilbur Upson.

During the routine business, Miss Mary Butler was put in charge of the collection of sales tax stamps. The group voted to make a donation to the Dental Clinic. Mrs. Knight was named chairman of the December social meeting, with Mrs. Elmore Houston, Miss Mary Louise Hout, Miss Thelma Hursh, Mrs. C. E. Hunter and Mrs. Clifford Healon.

There will be another sorority business meeting at the hotel next Tuesday evening, with a social meeting to be held on Nov. 12. The sorority members are entertaining guests with a Halloween masquerade dance this Saturday evening at the Possum Run club house. The affair will be a box social with Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller in charge of arrangements.

Honor Mrs. Kopcial At Masquerade Party

At a class meeting and masquerade party of a Sunday school class at the home of Miss Carol E. Sturgeon, 256 South Adams street, Monday night, Mrs. William Kopcial, formerly Miss Marjorie Siegfried, was feted with a miscellaneous shower. Miss Naomi Hamblin, attired as a bride, took part in a mock wedding ceremony, and presented the gifts.

Miss Hamblin, a guest, was presented with a prize, and the game winners were Bettie Myers, Mabel Haas and Martha Barton. Halloween and nuptial appointments were used on the table when refreshments were served. The class will meet in November with Mrs. Eldon Cunning assisted by Clara Reinoehl and Miss Barton.

Mrs. Charles Beer Has Meeting of Church Class

Members of the Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church were the guests of Mrs. Charles Beer, 14 Lexington avenue, yesterday when Mrs. Clarence Swaidner assisted. There were 17 present. Mrs. J. C. Robinson led the devotions, after which a business meeting and social hour was conducted.

Contests were won by Mrs. Cleo Buchter, Mrs. George Brooker, Mrs. Earl Penney and Mrs. Frank Brannon. The next meeting will be held Nov. 26 with Mrs. John McPhern, Woodville road. She will be assisted by Mrs. Penney and Mrs. William Burmelin. Halloween appointments were used on the refreshment table.

MEMBERS HEAR PAPERS AT MEETINGS OF CLUBS

Panama Canal Topic for Discussion By Mrs. Kochenderfer, Mrs. White Talks on Character and Growth.

MEMBERS of the Tourist club were the guests of Mrs. W. S. Valmore, Cook road, yesterday. Mrs. W. L. Parkinson presided, and the president, Mrs. George Bowers, and Mrs. Dimon Herring gave current events presenting the world problem. For the paper, Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer gave the history and economic value of the Panama canal.

"Faces in Stone" was the title of Mrs. Frank Hartman's paper on the Stone mountain memorial at Atlanta, Ga., and the current sculpturing project on Mt. Rushmore in the Black Hills. Mrs. Charles Ray was elected to substitute membership this year, and Miss Evangeline White and Mrs. F. C. Lucas, Atlanta, Ga., were guests.

Tea was served from a table decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Parkinson poured. The next meeting will be held Nov. 12 at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. D. C. Cole, 306 Vennum avenue.

* * *

"Character and Spiritual Growth" was the topic of the paper presented by Mrs. Nicholas White at the meeting of the Child Study club which was held last night at the home of Mrs. Dean Fighter, Raleigh avenue, with Mrs. James Brown assisting.

Mrs. Gordon Colby, president, welcomed Mrs. Robert Alexander, Mrs. C. E. Newcomb, Mrs. Robert Crawford, Mrs. M. O. Burneson and Mrs. J. W. Miller into membership. A report of the dental clinic was given, and Mrs. Brown and Mrs. T. S. Banks were elected as representatives to the clinic.

Mrs. W. J. Robbins was appointed to the board. Mrs. Keith Miller reported on the children's Hallowen party which was given recently. Refreshments were served from a table decorated with fruit, bittersweet and orange tapers. Mrs. Colby poured.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 26 with Mrs. Dale Balph and Mrs. William Riester as hostesses. Atty. Stuart Cramer will speak on "Psychology and Religion."

* * *

Unvarnished Truth Dangerous

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I married one of the best of men and I love him dearly—except when he sings. He has absolutely no ear, and is perfectly happy when he's a half tone off the key, and throwing everyone else off the key, enjoying it as if he were enthralling an audience at the Metropolitan.

"We have a very nice home and my husband is the soul of hospitality. He invites his men friends around for what he calls a 'Beer and Sing.' I make some sandwiches and the occasion would be perfect if he'd let the others sing. But he insists on leading, and then he goes sharp, flata and haywire. Sometimes the tune escapes him entirely, but he continues just as happily as before.

"The boys all like to come to our house and I like to have them, and it's never any trouble to fix the little supper they enjoy so much, put out the ash trays and sometimes play their accompaniments. But the singing of my husband is maddening.

"He asked me once if I didn't think it was a mistake he hadn't gone in for professional singing instead of insurance. I couldn't resist telling him if he had, he would have had to double the insurance on his own life. He asked me if didn't like his voice, and I told him frankly that it was the most terrible voice I have ever heard, that he had no ear, and that personally I preferred the croak of a bullfrog. Since then he has sulked and is not the same person.

"I've given him every opportunity to say something nasty about me—my housekeeping, my interior decorating (I've never done any outside my own house) —but he won't take me up. He just goes on being a martyr, suffering silently and we've never had a 'Beer and Sing' at the house since. How can I get him back on his own trolley?

"TOO FRANK WIFE."

It might be a kill-or-cure experiment, but in your place I believe I'd take a chance and invite in all the "Beer and Sing" crowd as a surprise party for your grieving husband. They might say they'd missed the singing parties and missed him so much they decided to come over anyway. He may sulk for a little while but I think you may be able to thaw him out.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I went back to Olga's door at a much slower gait than that with which I had raced from it. Though I brought with me the boon she coveted for Olina, I was afraid that it would be outweighed by the knowledge that she could not give her fiance in private the tidings of the emeralds being found.

Lillian and Olga were standing where I had left them. Lillian gave me a quizzical look as I came up to them.

I gave them my father's messages, and if Olga were disappointed in the one which concerned Philip Veritzen, she concealed it beautifully.

"But that is wonderful about Olina," she said. "In about an hour, you say. But what must I tell her? She is not dressed, and she must not delay your father when he sends for her."

The Meeting.

"Just tell her to dress at once," I told her. "For my father's 'hour' is sometimes elastic. It would be better for her to get ready immediately, and then wait in your rooms until one of us comes for her."

"Will you excuse me, please?" she said, and opening the door of her room she went in, and through the open door we heard her low voice giving the message. There was an ejaculation from Olina: "I can't," and the firm reply, "You must," and then she was back again, with the door closed upon her daughter.

"She will be ready," she said.

"Then let us take you to Phil," I said, and Lillian and I walked with her to the door of my room where the famous theatrical manager, looking very handsome and impressive, was waiting for her.

"Olga!" he said, holding out his hands. As she put hers into them, Lillian and I slipped away to a hall seat and waited until nearly the time named by my father had elapsed. Then she went back to the door and knocked, while I sped down the corridor to Olina.

She was fully dressed when I opened the door, but her brows were knitted, and she was plainly in a bad temper.

"Do you know why your father wishes to see me?" she asked.

"If I did know, Olina, I would not be able to tell you," I said briskly. "But you will know when you get to his room, and I must ask you to hurry."

She walked with me then at my pace, with no further comment, but I saw her eyes widen when she came into my father's room and saw her mother seated before a table with Philip Veritzen standing by her side. Lillian was already seated, and my father set out chairs for Olina and me. Then he spoke measuredly to Philip.

"I have sent for you and your future step-daughter to give you the only bit of pleasant news in all this turmoil. Queen Olga"—my father, as does my mother-in-law, gives the exiled queen her title—"has known the news for a little while, but I asked her to keep it to herself until I should deem the time right for you to know it. Now it is my pleasure to show you something which I think you will recognize."

He walked to his wall safe, took from it a box, and walking back to the table, opened it, and disclosed the gorgeous emeralds which Lillian and I had seen when he showed them to Queen Olga.

Philip Veritzen caught his breath, and then turning to his fiancee, lifted her hand and kissed it with old world courtesy, a beautiful, romantic gesture which I knew had genuine feeling in it.

"My dear!" he said. "I am so glad for you. Not that it makes the slightest difference to me, but I am so glad for your sake."

But Olina had not gone to her mother. With a little inarticulate cry she had dashed to the table, scooped the flashing jewels up in her hands and was holding them against her face, crooning to them as if they had been babies.

"Oh! you darlings, you beauties!" she apostrophized. "How wonderful to get you back again!"

Her mother waited a long minute before speaking. I guessed with a reluctance to tell her what she must know.

"You know, cherie," she said finally, "they will not be ours long. We must sell them, for we have no other funds."

The girl flashed round upon her mother, while something starkly avid gleamed in her eyes.

"But you can't do that!" she cried. "They are to be mine. I won't let them go!"

MODERN RANGE

A thoroughly modern gas range should be attractive in appearance, with an enamel finish which will not chip or crack. It should have a super-thrift oven: burners designed to use a minimum amount of gas, but cook fast, which saves gas and reduces meat shrinkage, and the range should be easy to clean, without cracks or crevices.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

GALION—Galion public schools will be closed Friday in order that teachers will be able to attend sessions of the National Education association in either Columbus, Cleveland or Toledo.

Getting Child to Take Milk

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Many a child from two to five does not drink enough milk. He should consume about one and one-half pints of milk a day.

You can, of course, prepare many foods containing milk in disguise. Even then the child may not get nearly enough unless he enjoys drinking it.

The child may grow more interested in taking milk if he has a small pitcher from which to pour it, but the chances are that no such device will wholly solve the problem.

Place a small cup of milk before the child at the beginning of the meal. Explain to him that he can have no other food until he has drunk it. If he chooses not to drink all of it let his meal end there with no food at all until the next meal.

Then proceed as before. If he drinks this amount and chooses no more at the end of the meal let the matter go. Be satisfied at the time with your victory. With the habit of drinking established, he will almost surely choose later to drink more.

It is very important that the cup or amount of milk in it be small when this problem is attacked. To be successful the amount offered should always be consumed without resistance.

Do not try to force the milk directly into the child. Let him choose, but limit his choices to drinking the milk or going without other food. The opportunity to choose between milk or nothing is vastly different from making him drink the milk, or even trying to get it into him by some trick or bribe.

Then there is the tot who is satisfied with milk alone as a diet and refuses some or all solid foods. Keep milk away from this child until after he has eaten some or all the other foods and, if necessary, for a week or so, give him no milk between meals except, perhaps, at bed time. Again, let the child choose between the food offered or nothing.

Reverse the Process.

If, as often is the case, the child refuses vegetables or a particular essential vegetable, proceed as already indicated. Merely let him choose between it and nothing, and show no emotions if he does not eat this time. Neither coax him nor push the food into him.

In case it is a particular essential vegetable he refuses, offer a very, very, small portion of it to him, nothing else. If he refuses to eat it let his meal end there and proceed at the next meal as before, with no other food in the meanwhile. If he is old enough to walk, place on a plate, with a spoon beside it, a very small portion of the food on a low table or chair, go about your business with your lips sealed. If he has not begun to eat the food in, say, four minutes, call the food to his attention and remove it without saying a word. Continue in this fashion until you get results. It may take several days. But don't give up too soon.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP THE ENEMY

There are two cardinal principles of defensive play which underlie all others. The first is to find some course of action, if you can, which definitely contributes to the success of your effort to defeat the contract. If at any stage of try, you are unable to figure out a lead or play which seems likely to help that cause, then observe the other basic principle, which is this: do not do something which probably will help the declarer. It is like the situation of the youngster treed by the bear who prayed: "At least, if you can't help me for goodness sake don't help that bear."

West reflected upon the perversity of a world in which he would not have even one heart to lead to the suit bid by his partner. He didn't like to lead a diamond, as that suit had been bid and rebid by the dummy, and his lead of it might prove the worst of all, helping the declarer to set up some winners there before its side entries, if any, were disturbed. He didn't like to lead away from his club tenace, and that left him only one choice, as he figured it—spades.

West therefore led his spade 4, dummy playing the 6, East the Q and South A. The contract was thus assured at the outset, declarer taking four tricks in spades, three in diamonds and two with the aces of hearts and clubs.

Clearer thinking would have told West that, next to the dummy's suit, the declarer's was the worst lead. He should have led boldly away from his club tenace—not at suit play perhaps, but surely at No Trumps. The declarer then would have had to guess who had the spade Q and probably would have guessed wrong. If he had, he could not have found any way to take nine tricks, and would have been sure to go down one or two, depending on how he went about it.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ A 6 ♥ 9 5 4 ♦ A K 7 3 ♣ 8 7 5 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After the heart Q lead, if South tries to make 7-No Trumps on this deal by means of a double squeeze, how should East and West discard in an effort to thwart him?

WEDDING SET

BUCYRUS—Announcement was made today of the approaching marriage, in November, of Miss Mabel Cole, daughter of Mrs. John Shaffer, 563 Prospect street, and Harry Frey of Youngstown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Frey, 938 Marion road.

TIME SWITCH

Along with so many other household appliances, washing machines grow simpler and more efficient. Crosley, for instance, has installed a time-switch. The dial plainly indicates the proper number of minutes for washing various materials. The motor is automatically stopped at the right moment.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, October 31.

THE AFFAIRS of this day might be considered to work "at sixes and sevens" judging by the conflicting planetary configurations. While there is a notable trend toward the large, munificent, expansive and generous, with ambitions and aspirations under excellent impetus, yet with parallel force are found moments of defeat, difficulties, obstruction and discouragement. Impulses of extravagance and indulgence may have to meet the stern realities of limitation, postponement, and incapacity. Yet on the lighter side there may be pleasant and profitable moves, change, domestic, social or affectional compensations.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of perplexing and contradictory experiences, with matters being drawn into situations and problems, best expressed as "pro and con." Expansive and ambitious urges may seem to sweep onward with security and high hopes to be as definitely swept backward by stubborn obstacles, definite delays and defeats. These while discouraging and testing are not entirely hopeless as there may be lesser advantages in minor changes or journeys.

A child born on this day should have much versalitity and creative ability, which may be utilized in practical channels as well as in musical, artistic or literary works of much merit.

Here's 'Order Number' List for Richland Registrants

Here are the "order numbers" for Richland county draftees, as they were drawn in the national lottery in Washington yesterday and last night.

Compiled from special wire reports furnished to The News-Journal by the Associated Press in Washington, they are still subject, of course, to error either in transmission, handling, or in other ways beyond the control of either the Associated Press or The News-Journal.

For instance, yesterday's News-Journal said that the highest number drawn in Washington that would effect Richland county would be 3424, since that was the largest number of registrants in any one of the county's three draft areas. Yet within an hour after The News-Journal had appeared on the street, Draft Board No. 1 reported it had at that time 3533 registrants. Hence, all numbers up to and including 3533 affect Richland county. There is a possibility that the final top serial number will be even higher as cards of Mansfielders who registered out of town begin to arrive at the local draft boards.

In the main, however, the list will be correct. Such errors as the one explained above may move some registrants up or down a few places in the final order number list, but will not cause great changes in the order number.

For the convenience of registrants, let it be explained again how to use the following list or order numbers. First look for your serial number. Suppose your number is 2229.

It appears in the draft list in the paragraph designated under the sub-heading "901 to 950."

If you are registered in Draft Board No. 1, then your order number—the order in which you will be issued a questionnaire—is 902.

But if you live in districts No. 2 or 3, determine from your board headquarters, the highest serial number issued in your district. Then go through the entire list as far as your own number, eliminating all numbers higher than the highest number in your district. Subtract each elimination from 902, and you have your order number.

Suppose you live in District No. 2, the smallest district, and suppose you find 50 numbers higher than the highest issued in your district ahead of yours. Subtracting 50 from 902 gives you 852. That is your order number. If you live in District No. 3, you may find only 30 numbers listed that are higher than the highest issued in your district. Then your order number would be 882.

This morning, the three local draft boards gave the following as their top serial numbers. No. 1 3533, No. 2, 2777, and No. 3 3135.

As pointed out, all draft districts have received additional registration cards, from Richland county residents who registered out of town. As soon as their cards have been shuffled and given serial numbers by the board they will be published by The News-Journal.

Then holders of those numbers can find their order numbers by referring to this list. The first of the additions to the serial number lists will probably appear in tomorrow's News-Journal.

Mr. Taxpayer--Here's Another Peek at The Record!

During the past six years 1935-1940 inclusive, the Richland County Prosecutor's Office has spent and appropriated the following sums annually for "Special Assistants."

EXPENSE SPECIAL ASSISTANTS

1935	$1,075.00
1936	600.00
1937	3,100.00
1938	2,975.00
1939	1,725.00
1940	1,900.00
Total	$11,375.00

From 1935 to October 1, 1940 my opponent served you as regular Assistant Prosecutor. During these years your Prosecuting Attorney was required to spend and appropriate the total sum of $11,375.00 for SPECIAL ASSISTANCE in addition to the regular salary of $175.00 each and every month paid to the regular assistant prosecutor.

THEODORE L. LUTZ

The Records Also Reveal the Regular Assistant Prosecutor Engaged In Private Practice

While you as taxpayers were required to contribute your share of this $11,375.00 for special prosecuting aid, the Democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney was assistant prosecutor and also was engaged in the private practice of law. The courthouse records give a partial picture of his activities in private practice, and show that the present regular assistant prosecutor was attorney in 39 divorce cases, 7 civil actions, 21 estate cases.

I not only promise to reduce the cost of operating the prosecutor's office in Richland County, but further pledge myself that, if elected, I will with the help of one regular assistant prosecutor perform all the duties of the Prosecuting Attorney's office in a competent, fair and courteous manner.
